

Investors Quit Canada Take $1,800,000 Loss

LONDON (Reuters)—One of Britain's biggest investment companies is to withdraw its investment in Canada with an estimated loss of about $600,000 ($1,800,000), it was announced yesterday.

Harold Samuel, head of the Land Securities Investment Trust, told his shareholders in a statement the company's affairs in Canada "had not prospered as we would have wished."

He added that "as there seemed to be no prospect of real improvement, the board decided to cease activities in Canada and repatriate the resulting funds which... It is considered can be put to better use at home."

The company's total investment in Canada is $2,253,000 and it is estimated the assets, mainly properties, will produce $1,644,000.

City Surrenders To Worm Army Until Green Gone

MENOMONIE, Wis. (UPI)—Some Menomonee residents waited Friday, others sprayed. But most just sat back and waited for an army of canker or "measuring" worms to finish dining on everything green in sight and crawl back in the ground.

The worms invaded the city two weeks ago. They defoliated many trees to winter-like bareness and apparently chased off squirrels and rabbits.

Dr. John Lilly, a University of Wisconsin entomologist, told an emergency meeting of city council nothing could be done.

"You'll just have to wait until they crawl back into the ground," he said, "and that will be about a week."

Next time around, he advised, "spray early."

The invasion of canker worms upped the green terror of life in the community.

● One housewife slipped on a worm-covered sidewalk and broke her wrist.

● Ruben Faulks built a fire in his fireplace on a warm spring day, because the worms were coming down the chimney.

● Ed Brown said he ran into such a swarm of the insects dropping off trees he ate some by mistake.

"They have a funny stink, but they don't taste too bad," he said.

The worms, which normally restrict their diet to trees, expanded their appetites to include flower and vegetable gardens.

County agent Howard Kuhn said the heavy infestation was due to ideal weather conditions that permitted hatching of most of the moth larvae.

Piper Piker

Slicker Snared Pickles

THREE OAKS, Mich. (AP)—The piper fellow who picked a peck of pickled peppers was a piker compared to the slicker who snared 2,400 pecks of pickles from a Three Oaks firm.

State police had the job Friday of trying to catch the culprit on complaint of Jack Weinberg, owner of the Manhattan Pickle company at Three Oaks.

Weinberg discovered yesterday that his firm had lost 600 bushels of pickles.

Investigators say the thief apparently used dip nets to snare pickles from the vats, leaving some to float on the surface of the vats to give an illusion of full measure. The thefts were discovered by employees emptying vats for processing.

Concessions After Vote?

SASKATOON (UPI)—Welfare Minister A. M. Nicholson said Friday he had come ready to believe concessions would be granted to the province's doctors in the medicare dispute after the June 18 federal election.

Whirlwind Tour

Go See Fair Philip Smiles

SEATTLE (CP)—Prince Philip, departing from his prepared schedule at will to glimpse whatever caught his eye, made a whirlwind tour of the world's fair here Friday, setting vast crowds cheering and security officers to scratching their heads.

The crowd—several thousands gathered around each pavilion he was to visit—pressed within a few feet of the royal visitor everywhere he went.

There were no major incidents although shortly after his arrival at noon one woman about 40 pushed her way through the official party almost to the duke's elbow, shouting "I have a letter from the Queen." The duke smiled at her, then continued on his way as police moved her aside.

BY SURPRISE

When he had concluded his tour he made a brief public address which seemed to take him by surprise.

"I have been told for some extraordinary reason," he said, "to say something to you."

"I can't think why. You are

Firm Control On Progress Philip's Plea

SEATTLE (CP)—

Worship at the altar of progress should not blind people to the need to keep progress in all its forms firmly under control, Prince Philip said Friday night.

The Duke of Edinburgh was addressing 600 persons attending a formal black-tie dinner given in his honor by the English-Speaking Union of the United States during his two-day visit to Seattle and the world's fair.

STRESS ON FUTURE

He congratulated the state of Washington and Seattle for an enterprising and fascinating fair in which he said he found the most significant thing is the emphasis on the future.

"It is very easy to look back with pride on past achievements or even with remorse on past failures," he said. "But it is far more difficult to look forward with plans for a better world."

FROM OUR GRASP

"It is particularly difficult at this moment of explosive scientific and technological development, when the control of our destiny seems to be slipping from our grasp."

"Worship at the altar of progress is an increasingly popular manifestation but it should not blind people to the need to keep progress in all its forms firmly under control."

INDISCRIMINATELY

"In particular," the duke said, "I believe that we should concern ourselves that progress does not displace nature indiscriminately."

"Man's intellect may be self-sufficient, but man's spirit needs the refreshing and inspiring influence of the living natural world."

With Cpl. Raymond Bate of Queen's Household Cavalry at attention at left, Prince Philip arrived in British exhibit at Seattle fair yesterday.

Royal Honors Range From Law to Low For Birthday List

LONDON (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth marked her official birthday by bestowing honors on several hundred of her subjects Friday, ranging from constitutional law expert Lord Radcliffe to internationally-known cartoonist David Low.

The 63-year-old Radcliffe, now a baron, is the only new viscount. He headed a five-man committee appointed to study British civil service security following the 42-year prison sentence passed on foreign service employee George Blake for spying.

COLONEL BLIMP

A knighthood was given to David A. C. Low, 71, whose cartoons appear in the influential Liberal Guardian. Low created the best-selling Colonel Blimp—perpetually in a Turkish bath—to satirize the Conservatives.

Friday's birthday honors list appeared almost six weeks after the Queen's 36th birthday on April 21.

Church Rejects Censure

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada refused to censure Saskatchewan doctors for their opposition to the province's medical care plan.

A resolution to the final day of the 30th annual meeting of the conference, calling on the doctors to co-operate with the government, was thrown out Friday after heated exchanges.

Rev. Helmut Wiprecht of Cobalt, Ont., said the conference last year had "the cheek" to censure Premier Antoine Sola of Portugal. It should now have "the courage to tell the doctors a few things."

Rev. Harry Martin of Thistleton, Ont., who introduced the resolution on behalf of the evangelism and social services committee of the conference, said it was not intended as a "gratuitous insult" to Saskatchewan. "We simply feel it is our duty to make our attitude known."

The conference eventually decided to appeal to both the government and doctors "to show a spirit of conciliation."

The resolution also called on the Ontario government to co-operate with the federal government "to take steps to inaugurate a health plan for Ontario."

The conference Friday decided to press for the admission of a "substantial number" of Hong Kong refugees.

Another resolution attacked Premier Robarts for his recent decision to relax Ontario's liquor laws.

Your Good Health

Murmuring Heart Often Heard But Gurgles Means Faulty Valve

By JOSEPH MOINER MD

Dear Dr. Moiner: What is the difference between a functional heart murmur and a leaking valve or rheumatic heart? What is myocarditis?—R. H.

A functional murmur is a faint swishing sound that can be heard while examining a heart, but it tends to disappear when the patient quickens the heart rate by exercise.

A murmur of this kind is not uncommon among children and young adults, and it doesn't signify heart disease.

MADE BY BLOOD
A faulty heart valve resulting from rheumatic fever is entirely different.

It, too, produces a murmur which is simply a variation means the presence of some allment quite apart from heart disease.

An important difference is that the murmur from a faulty valve will increase with exercise. There are other technical aspects: the location of the murmur and the direction in which the sound is transmitted.

In such cases it usually is possible to trace prior attacks of rheumatic fever.

STARTING POINT

Murmurs can occur in people who have over-active thyroid problems, anemia, and congenital heart defects. The mere presence of a murmur is only a starting point from which the doctor must learn whether it means nothing, or means a heart condition, or at times a heart condition, or at times a heart condition, or at times a heart condition.

One More Witness Saw Missing Boy

One more witness appeared yesterday in the search for Peter Woycheshin, 8, missing since Saturday from 522 Rupert Street.

An 11-year-old boy, who knew Peter, reported seeing him at about 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the CPR docks.

The last sighting report is that of two girls, aged eight and six, who saw him at 3:30 p.m. Sunday during the Golden Hawks' air show, near the southeastern corner of Beacon Hill Park.

This was 2 1/2 hours after Peter had left home. One of the girls thought she saw a man following Peter.

LEFT HOME

Peter and brother Andy, 4, left home at 10 a.m. Saturday to play in Beacon Hill Park. Andy came back not long after 11, reporting that Peter was at a friend's house on Elliott Street.

But Peter never turned up at that house.

He has been missing for one week today. Searchers have to consider the following alternatives:

That he fell in the sea. He was a non-swimmer. Park lakes have been dragged. Most are extremely shallow.

That he crawled into a box or cellar and was unable to get out.

That he stowed away in a ship or a boat. (Unlikely—yesterday in the search for Peter Woycheshin, 8, missing since Saturday from 522 Rupert Street.)

That he was kidnapped—perhaps by a sexual deviate.

Two sailors reported seeing a boy of Peter's description in company of two known homosexuals in Beacon Hill Park, Saturday afternoon.

Sooke Youth In Court For Fight

A Sooke youth who is under suspended sentence for a burglary pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of assaulting a teacher at a Belmont High School graduation dance.

Haldane—who had never been a Belmont student—admitted causing a fracas outside Belmont High School gymnasium last Friday.

Haldane had been given a two-year suspended sentence May 24 for breaking and entering and theft at Gibson's Shopping Centre, Sooke, April 10.

RCMP said he would be charged with violation of his recognizances.

'Eichmann's Evil Was Punished —Justice Done'

JERUSALEM (AP) — "No punishment could be adequate for this great destroyer, but his evil has been punished and justice has been done."

This comment by the Tel Aviv newspaper Yediot Ahrontot Friday on the end of Adolf Eichmann—President Ben-Zvi's rejection of a clemency appeal, the quick transfer of the prisoner from Jerusalem to Ramleth Prison, his last unrepentant words, the springing of the trap, the scattering of his ashes over the Mediterranean.

UPHELD EXECUTION
By word of mouth and editorial, Israelis upheld the mid-night execution.

The general attitude seemed to be collective relief, as the nation quitted for the traditional Sabbath observance, that the grim and bloody Eichmann case at last was over.

The Jerusalem Post said in an editorial:

'IT'S JUSTICE'
"It is certainly justice that this task should have been completed by Israel whose people were the chief sufferers of Eichmann's frenzied devotion to the satanic aim of extermination of the Jews."

On streets, in coffee shops and restaurants, Israelis heard Kol Israel radio station declare: "There's no atonement for millions of victims, but justice has been done."

ISRAELI AGENTS
The 56-year-old former Gestapo officer, captured in Argentina by Israeli agents in May, 1960, was convicted Dec. 12, 1961.

Execution 'Inhuman' Says Son

LONDON (CP)—Public comment around the world Friday was generally unanimous that Adolf Eichmann went to a just death when he was hanged by the state of Israel. But there were a few dissenters.

The big Tokyo newspaper Asahi said: "This sort of 'eye for an eye' revenge will cause a vicious cycle in history."

Moscow radio and a West German government spokesman both greeted the news of the 56-year-old Nazi killer's death with the same words: "Justice has been done."

But the threat of a nasty situation developed in Buenos Aires where the fugitive Eichmann was snatched from his post-war hideout by Israeli agents two years ago.

Guards were posted near synagogues, Jewish clubs and the Israeli embassy in the Argentine capital after nationalist groups urged their members to demonstrate to protest Eichmann's execution.

In Buenos Aires, Klaus Eichmann, one of the dead man's three sons living there, said bitterly: "Judaism has achieved the impossible and proved once again that money is stronger than law and justice."

He called the execution of the man who fed Adolf Hitler's gas chambers "inhuman."

Mystery Witness Testifies

EDMONTON (CP)— Preliminary hearing of two Edmonton men on a charge of capital murder was adjourned until June 11 Friday after a mystery witness testified for the first time.

William (Headball) Huculak, 29, and Daniel Workman, 44, were charged following the disappearance in April of Frank Willey, 48-year-old Edmonton golf professional.

The hearing was adjourned after the court heard evidence from Paul Osborne, also known as Hadley, of Vancouver.

Osborne's identity was a closely guarded police secret until Friday. He told the court under cross-examination he was a former "strong-arm collector for the rackets down East."

44 Doctors Offered Jobs in U.S.

REGINA (CP)—Dr. J. H. McIntosh, a physician at the Medical Arts Clinic here, said Friday a Los Angeles medical clinic has offered jobs to 44 general practitioners and specialists at the Regina clinic.

Dr. McIntosh said the offer was made by the Ross Loose Clinic in Los Angeles two days ago and the Regina doctors were given until September to make a decision.

He added the Regina doctors as yet have not indicated what they will do.

Who Ate the Caviar?

NEW YORK — Somebody lived high on $2.95 worth of Iranian caviar and it wasn't the guests at a dinner sponsored by the Shah of Iran and Dwight Eisenhower at the Hotel Astor in 1960.

The International Association for Iranian Art and Archaeology has filed a $100,000 damage suit against the hotel, charging that 65 pounds of top-grade caviar disappeared at its banquet two years ago. The $45-a-pound caviar was the Shah's gift.

Banquet guest Kathleen Prentice Murphy asked $20,000 from the Astor for "mental anguish" because the wine listed on the menu was not served at her table.

LONDON — Princess Margaret chatted with Frank Sinatra in a receiving line held before Sinatra's midnight matinee in Royal Festival Hall. His performance was cheered.

WASHINGTON — Dwight Eisenhower said he's "ready to mount the cross and you can see the nails in me" if his case goes to trial. His treasury secretary, George Humphrey, made big profits out of the U.S. defence stockpile program, as rump. Sen. Stuart Symington, whose committee is investigating, said stockpile tax losses would make the Billie Sol Estes case pale into insignificance.

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla.—A 55-gallon drum containing a high explosive was discovered on the beach a few yards from the Joseph P. Kennedy estate. It could have wiped out the estate and surrounding area.

LONDON — An arrest warrant was issued for Antony Armstrong-Jones' half-brother Lord Oxmantown, 25, who failed to appear in court on a charge of being in charge of a car while drunk.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—When Fred McNamara noticed a smoldering fire in the back of his rubbish truck, he drove to the nearest fire station. It was empty—the firemen were putting out a mattress fire in a hotel. A clerk phoned firemen at another station.

NEW DELHI—Defence Minister Menon denied India has negotiated with Russia to purchase Mi-21 jet fighters.

UPLAND, Calif.—Dr. Dan Gilbert, 47, a radio evangelist and former Prohibition Party candidate for governor, was fatally wounded in a motel shooting.

ANTIOCH, Calif.—Ross Draper graduated from high school, explaining: "My spelling has improved a great deal." Draper, 82, completed Grade II in 1896 and never went back.

LOS ANGELES — Actress Penny Singleton and two investigators were named in a $250,000 slander suit by Irvin Maseel, western regional director of the American Guild of Variety Artists.

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—Actor Lawrence Tierney, 42, pleaded innocent to charges of disturbing the peace and drunkenness.

Meat Boosts 'Pay Arms' For Soviets
WASHINGTON (AP)—United States officials Friday pictured Soviet Union meat and butter price increases as tightening the squeeze on Russian consumers to pay for huge Kremlin programs for arms and heavy industry.

The officials said Moscow's price raises point up the holowness of a boast by Premier Khrushchev in May 1957 that Russia, by 1960 or 1961, would be outproducing the United States in meat and dairy products on a per capita basis.

Terror Still on Holiday

ALGIERS (Reuters) — The European Secret Army has halted its terror campaign against Algerian independence while talks are held with Moslem nationalists on the future of Europeans in Algeria.

sources said confirmed meetings already have taken place between European representatives and spokesmen for Abderahmane Fares, Moslem president of the Algerian provisional executive.

One Moslem said the Tunisian leaders do not want Algeria to develop into a second Tunis.

Police believe the Secret Army truce is not likely to last much longer than next Monday, especially if the talks produce no immediate promise of results.

BUSINESS AS USUAL DURING IMPROVEMENTS

Indelibly Imprinted

THE WORLD has reached its verdict on Adolf Eichmann long before Israeli courts of justice found him guilty. Perhaps never before was universal opinion so unanimous. His culpability was enormous, and in the prolonged trial of last year proved to the hilt. He was a mass murderer, although not the only one involved, on a scale that beggared the imagination.

The only question, if any were left, was whether Israel would exact the full penalty for his crimes against the Jews and thus, in the larger sense, against humanity. This was answered two days ago when his appeal for clemency was rejected by the head of the state and Eichmann died by hanging.

Thus closed the case against Adolf Eichmann but not against the Nazi regime he served with such perverted fidelity. If it did his trial would be a failure.

The real purpose of the Eichmann trial was not to visit retribution upon him, even if richly deserved, but to indict the whole Hitler regime for the tortures and death it inflicted on 6,000,000 Jews in a pogrom unparalleled in its ferocity and horror. It was to place this vast crime indelibly on the record of history so that it could never be forgotten and never be repeated.

That has been done. The very length of the Eichmann trial and the ghastly unfolding of each tale of horror as it proceeded, tended to dull the mind through the immensity of the crimes perpetrated.

But for all time there has been imprinted on the annals of history the sufferings of the Jewish people in a manner calculated to give them fresh hope for their future recognition and reception in the world.

Quoting Mr. Hellyer

THE LIBERAL PARTY, having run into an unpleasant little squall over its proposals for the future of the Royal Canadian Navy, is searching desperately for a safe harbor.

Having failed to find one, it has been forced to turn its hand to reconstructing the words of its senior defence critic, Mr. Paul Hellyer, whose ill-chosen remarks caused the storm in the first place.

One distinguished Liberal newspaper has even gone so far as to claim that Mr. Hellyer was deliberately misquoted in order to put the Liberal Party and one of its candidates, Capt. David Groos, in a bad light as far as the navy was concerned.

But this is not so. Mr. Hellyer's offending remarks were carried in the news columns of that newspaper itself under the heading: "Hellyer: Money Wasted on Navy Ships."

It reports Mr. Hellyer as advocating that the navy should provide assault landing craft, and quotes him saying: "We are wasting too many of our defence dollars. What good are destroyer escorts and frigates against a nuclear sub they can't find five miles deep in the ocean?"

"Canada should phase out of her anti-sub role." Later, in answer to the uproar created by his unfortunate words, Mr. Hellyer issued another statement in which he attempted to explain what he had meant to say.

"I suggested," he said, "that some emphasis be given to building troop carriers and assault craft in order that the navy play an important part in the establishment of a mobile strike force for Canada involving all three services. I further proposed that destroyer escorts and frigates were of little use against the nuclear submarine today and that our best defence today might be the anti-submarine submarine and hydrofoil craft now being developed."

The change in Mr. Hellyer's approach is apparent. Something new has been added. Instead of repeating his earlier demands that "Canada should phase out of her anti-sub role," he has developed the thought that Canada should continue to oppose enemy submarines but with anti-submarine submarines and hydrofoil craft.

On the subject of misquoting it is interesting to note that the aforementioned newspaper did not carry one line of this in its original news story dealing with Mr. Hellyer's first statement.

Can it be that Mr. Hellyer is now misquoting Mr. Hellyer?

Out of Place

MANY AN ASPIRANT to a political career serves his apprenticeship, as it were, in local government, there sharpening the appropriate skills and becoming more widely known. This in most cases is perhaps to the general good. It means at least that many legislators at the provincial and federal levels have a first-hand knowledge of municipal affairs and problems.

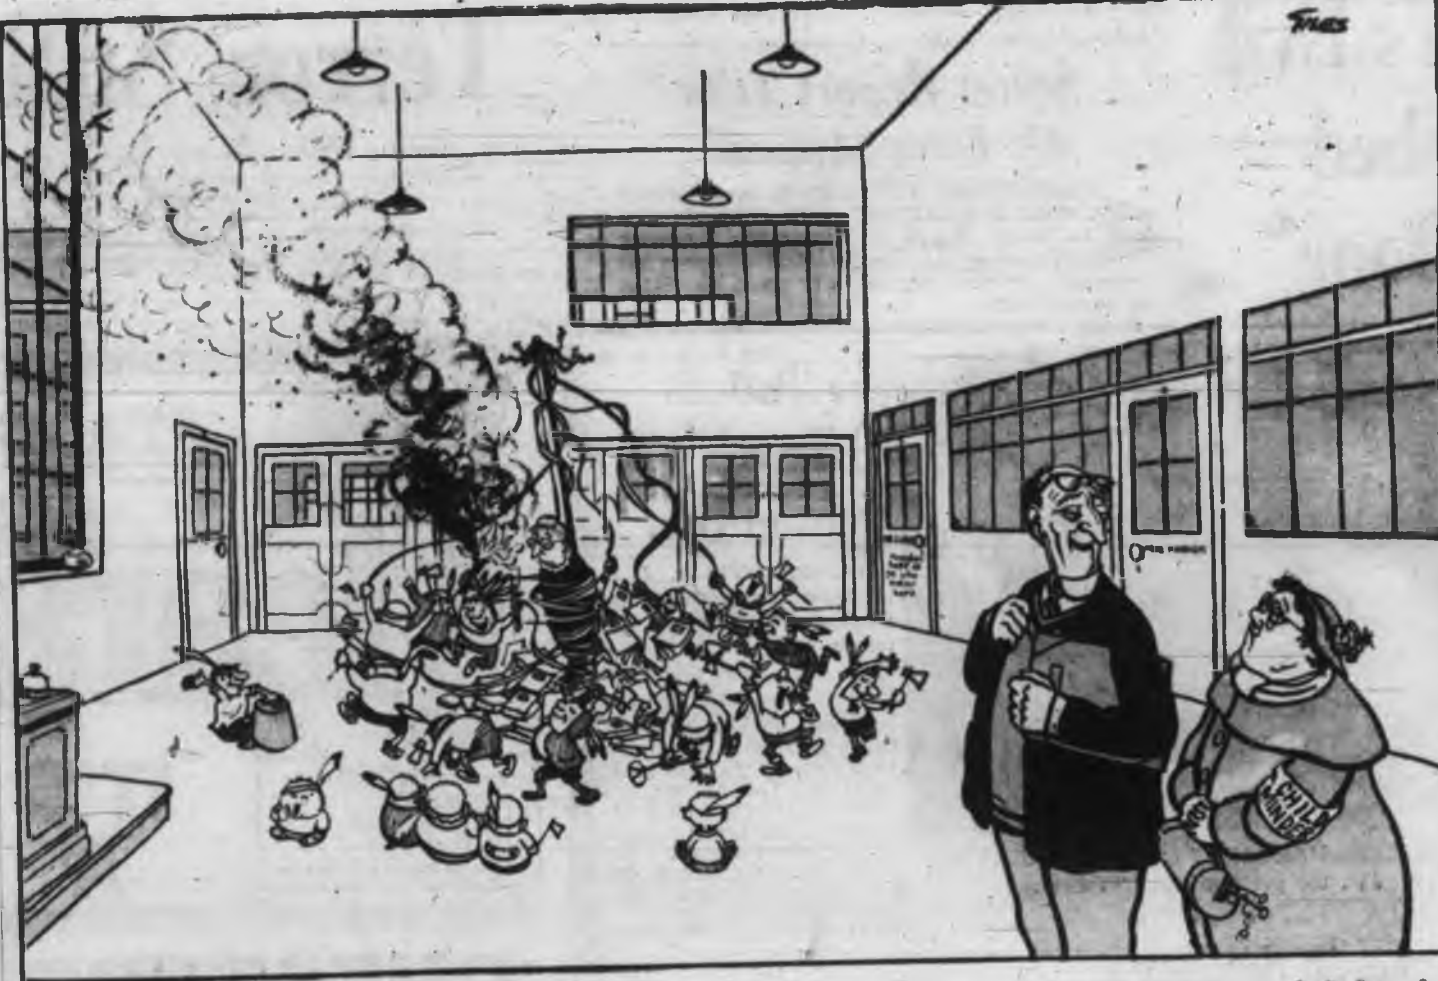

But paradoxically municipal administration must suffer if party politics enter the local government picture. Councils are not designed for partisan conflict. One can imagine the dire results, for instance, if a public works committee were dominated by New Democrats and the majority of council were Social Crediters.

Aldermen and councillors indeed have differences enough in personal viewpoint and judgment without being further divided by party dictate.

There is also the not inconsequential point that if councils were to take on noticeable political color, their dealings with the senior governments surely would be affected. To believe otherwise would be naive. It would be difficult for a provincial government to think as kindly of a municipality led by politicians of another stripe as one of its own camp.

That one Victoria alderman has seen fit to jump into the federal election campaign, not as a candidate but as a supporter, receiving public recognition because of his civic office, is therefore regrettable. It is to be hoped that others will disdain to follow his example.

Time enough for an alderman to turn active party politician when he runs for a provincial or federal seat.

Cambodian Dilemma

A Riddle in Southeast Asia

By NEIL LEVER

LUCKLESS Cambodia faces a dilemma as war clouds spread over Southeast Asia. Cambodia stands alone, almost indefensible. This little kingdom, ringed by war, has no allies, and nurses ancient grudges against its neighbors.

With Laos, Thailand and Vietnam on its borders, Cambodia could be used by Communists as a wedge to split all Southeast Asia. On the other hand, this wedge could help form a solid Red World front against the Red sweep South.

Cambodia has edged near the struggle. It is allowing the Communist North Vietnamese to use its borders as the base of assault against the entire length of South Vietnam, but it continues to flirt with Western leaders.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk rules 4.5 million inhabitants. He has found the role of neutralist profitable.

In one five-year period, Sihanouk personally visited Washington, Moscow, Peking and Paris and came away with at least $350 million. The United States handed him $290 million, Communist China $23 million, France $22 million, and Russia $17 million. Countries like Poland, Japan, New Zealand, Yugoslavia and Australia also chipped in a few million dollars each.

A short, rotund man, Sihanouk, 39, has always made Cambodia's middle ground pay. On receipt of each handsome gift from the West, he has made it a matter of "neutrality" to give the Communists a chance to top it.

In 1959, Sihanouk charged that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was plotting to overthrow him.

Washington snatched his feelings in early 1960 by pledging funds for an elaborate Cambodia highway and by giving Sihanouk's army a shipment of weapons.

The unpredictable premier accepted the gifts, then told the world U.S.-financed forces of South Vietnam were about to invade his kingdom. He topped this by complaining the U.S. weapons were "more dangerous for the user than for the enemy."

Sihanouk then flew to Moscow, where gratified Soviets handed him funds and technical assistance to build an air-conditioned hospital in Phnom Penh, Cambodian capital. The day before the hospital was to be dedicated, the consistently inconsistent Sihanouk jailed 20 Communists for plotting, warned the Russians to keep out of Cambodia's affairs, and flew to Paris for medical treatment—boycotting his own new hospital.

Cambodia has an elected parliament of 61 members who are supposed to govern the limited monarchy. But Sihanouk pays small heed to the constitution or parliament. He rules his realm as a personal estate. Few Cambodians seem to mind.

His only real critics are the Vietnamese immigrants living in scattered colonies along the eastern border. However, Cambodians view unnamed Vietnamese with little respect.

Resources abound in Cambodia. If developed, enormous prosperity would bless the land. But industry is primitive and the people are happy-go-lucky. They work hard in a backward, stubborn way.

A Cambodian farmer, turning down a foreign-aid tractor, explained:

"I would worry more about the tractor than my land because the tractor is worth more. The land is enough to worry about. The tractor would be fun if I had, no picture of an exiled rival leader. The third ballot was printed in red to signify the outlawed Communist party, and the fourth marked with a question mark for 'no opinion.' Sihanouk got 99.97 per cent of the vote.

In the first few centuries of the Christian era, Cambodia was the capital of the Khmer Empire, a mighty nation in the Far East. It ruled most of what is now Laos, Vietnam, Thailand, Malaysia and Burma.

When Khmer power crumbled, Cambodia started having trouble with Vietnam. There has been hardly a moment's peace since.

The Vietnamese bit off their first chunk of Cambodia in 562 A.D. In February, 1962, Prince Sihanouk complained they were still nibbling. During the 6th century, Siam (now Thailand) started grabbing land, too, but Vietnam has always been Cambodia's top headache.

In 1600, the Vietnamese tried invading Cambodia and failed. They failed again in 1810, 1831 and 1841.

In 1863, with Siam at its apex, Cambodia asked France to make it a protectorate. France negotiated the deal with the King of Siam and, from 1867 until the Second World War, Cambodia was a state of French Indo-China.

During the Second World War, the Japanese used Cambodia as a staging center for conquest of Indonesia and the Philippines. When France took over again in 1946, the French Indo-China war kept the people of the area occupied, although Cambodians still found time to insult Vietnamese to the point of occasional skirmishes.

Under the Geneva agreement of 1954, Cambodia and its neighbors became independent, but there has been little peace.

Cambodia's policy of letting Communist forces use its territory, and its avoidance of alliances in the pursuit of neutralist profits, doesn't look too good today.

It appears Cambodia can't be neutral much longer. But which side will Sihanouk choose?

Washington Calling

Contributions and Votes

By MARQUEE CHILDS

THE sympathetic voice over the telephone says, "Senator, I know you're having a hard fight back home and I wondered if you could use some money for radio and television time."

The senator replies that indeed he is having a hard fight and his opponent seems to have unlimited amounts to spend. So, he adds with certain cautious reservations, he sure could use some money.

"Well," the friendly voice goes on, "I think we can find $10,000 for you. But," and there is a significant pause, "we'd want to feel pretty sure what your attitude is on any move to cut back the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. That is, you know, if this comes up as one of the tax loopholes to be closed."

This is not a wholly imaginary conversation. The senator in question said he could not accept the contribution under those circumstances even though he was not sure how he would vote on the question of cutting back that particular tax loop hole.

It illustrates what almost any member of Congress will readily admit in private is the most blatant effort at political payoff. Whether the money comes from a trade union interested in backing an amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act or an airline interested in a new route, the donor to a Congressional campaign hopes to get something in return for his money. A conscientious senator or representative will be fearful that he is mortgaging a vote or a whole series of votes by accepting a proffered contribution even though he may be desperately hard pressed to pay for TV time.

With the government handing out large sums of money, as in the farm subsidy program, the temptations are multiplied many times over. The wonder is not that one Billie Noctes has come to light but that there have not been dozens of similar instances. The whole fantastic grain storage operation, costing the taxpayer one billion a year, is riddled with favoritism if not outright corruption.

Senator Ralph Yarborough (Democrat—Texas) is respected by most of his colleagues in the Senate for his independence and forthrightness. Over a 10-year period of running for state office, Yarborough accepted $7,000 in contributions from Estes. The senator says that he accepted such contributions from many sources to pay for campaigns that in the largest state in the union (with the exception of Alaska) cost a lot. He also accepted contributions to sustain his weekly radio reports, claiming that without such contact with the people, since the press has virtually shut him out.

What he is saying, in effect, is that a diversity of interests supported him and if one contributor turned out to be tainted that is one of the chances you take in politics.

The contributors to Richard Nixon's private fund, the disclosure of which in 1952 almost cost him his place on the Republican ticket, were virtually all businessmen with substantial interests or lawyers with important business clients. One of the uses Nixon put the fund to was identical with that of Yarborough—to pay for radio recordings in the Senate-House recording facility. Did they feel they knew him so well they could be sure of how he would vote in the Senate? It happened that in at least one instance he voted contrary to the request of one of the contributors.

Another example is Texas' other senator, John Tower, a Republican. As an extreme conservative, Tower had the unquestioning support of business, industry and oil. The contributors to his campaign would not have to call on him since they would know exactly what his position would be on every vote in the Senate.

Something like this can be said of certain senators who get most of their financial support from the unions. This threatens to become a kind of class or special-interest representation that runs contrary to American principle and practice.

As campaigns become more and more expensive with television and the other complex media, the big money becomes more and more important. This was Nixon's constant lament in the 1960 campaign as he inveighed against the wealth of the Kennedys in contrast to the limitations imposed by a government salary.

A month ago a bipartisan presidential commission reported on the need to correct the present system of campaign spending. It pointed to obvious abuses in putting candidates for high office under direct obligation to special interests. One recommendation was for a federal income tax credit of $10 and a deduction of $100 to encourage many small contributors.

But Congress has shown not the slightest sign of doing anything about reforming the system. Along with similar documented reports in the recent past, it goes into the file and forgets. Perhaps one reason is that a great many generous spenders still believe they can buy a vote.

Election Notes

As Goes P.E.I.

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

THE reputation of tiny Prince Edward Island as Canada's political wilderness is at stake in this national election.

As Prince Edward Island goes, they say, so goes the nation.

P.E.I.'s reputation for political prognostication and premonition rides on the remarkable record which Canada's smallest province has chalked up in this field since the 1921 general election: long before Dr. Gallup and his poll got into business.

In the last 11 general elections, Prince Edward Island has so managed its affairs as to send to Ottawa MPs who, for the most part, belong to the party which will form the government. The little province's success in finding winners to back, whether by good luck or good management, may have attracted less attention than it deserved because the province elects but four MPs to Parliament. But the record speaks for itself.

It's a curious fact that before 1921, whenever an election rolled around, P.E.I. never seemed to know which way was up.

Island voters were caught away off base in the great election of 1887, when not a single Conservative was returned. Nationally, the Conservatives won in a breeze. The province also fumbled shamefully in the elections of 1891, 1896, 1900, 1904, 1911 and 1917. But then it got the hang of things and hasn't really been wrong since.

In the 1957 and 1958 elections Prince Edward Island, it is scarcely necessary to repeat, despatched solid contingents of four Tories to Ottawa.

In this campaign, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, leaving his drive for office right in Charlottetown, the Cradle of Confederation. He was received with enthusiasm. So was Prime Minister Diefenbaker, when he came later.

Local campaigning is dominated by two Conservative announcements: one that a new ferry is being built to ply between the island and Nova Scotia, and the other that a causeway "will be built" between P.E.I. and New Brunswick.

Since the causeway will cost an estimated $105,000,000, this undertaking has led to charges that the Tories are trying to buy P.E.I. votes at $26,000,000 per elected MP and about $2,000 per voter. Several spokesmen have also expressed doubt that the Tories are really ready to proceed with either.

Since both projects are popular, though, criticism has gone no further.

As Prince Edward Island goes, they say, so goes the nation.

How does Prince Edward Island seem to be going?

In Queens county, which elects two members to parliament, rugged, laconic Fisheries Minister Angus MacLean seems sure of re-election. His running mate, political scientist Heath Macquarrie, appears to be running just slightly behind him. Two good Liberal candidates, Tra Lewis, a farmer, and Allison Gillis, a lawyer, are given only an outside chance of catching either.

Dr. Orville Phillips, the dentist who holds Prince county for the Conservatives, is given only a slight edge over Liberal George MacKay, a farmer who has had legislative experience and who is putting up a lively campaign.

The real question mark is Kings county. Liberal veteran Tom Kiekham, who won it in 1949 and 1953, was defeated here in 1957 and 1958. He lost for a third time, by a margin of 163 votes, in a byelection last year. The winner was Margaret Mary Macdonald, who contested the seat in the vacancy caused by her husband's death. She received a large sympathy vote.

A good deal of sympathy has also developed in the riding for three-time loser Tom Kiekham. He's not the strongest candidate the Liberals could have entered. But he is conceded a good chance of taking the riding now that Mrs. Macdonald has had a chance to complete her late husband's parliamentary term. Strictly a sympathy vote competition.

Today In History

June 2, 1962

Canadians suffered heavy casualties 46 years ago today—in 1916—in the First World War battle of Sanctuary Wood. Forced to withdraw under the fire of German guns, the Canadian Corps threw back the enemy 10 days later in bitter hand-to-hand fighting that preceded the Battle of the Somme.

1615—The first missionaries in Canada, the Recollets, arrived at Quebec.

1933—Elizabeth II was crowned in Westminster Abbey.

Grits Would End Subsidy To Shipyards, Says Hees

Trade Minister George Hees said last night a Liberal government would revoke the 40 per cent subsidy to Canada's shipyards.

In a speech before an audience of 125 at St. John's Hall, Sidney, Mr. Hees said the main reason shipyards here and elsewhere in Canada were "simply bursting with work" was because of the subsidy program instituted by the Tory government.

This, he predicted, would be the first thing the Liberals would eliminate if they formed the government.

'NOT IN FAVOR'

"They are not in favor of it. . . . They have criticized it in the House. . . . My opinion is that the first thing they would do would be to remove the subsidy that has been so beneficial to Canada's shipbuilding industry."

The tall, tanned trade minister made the statement in answer to a question from the audience, following his 45-minute speech.

PLANK BY PLANK

In his speech, he systematically dismantled the Liberal platform, plank by plank.

Free trade, advocated by Liberal leader Lester Pearson, said Mr. Hees, would destroy all but the giant industries in Canada.

He said the free trade program advocated by Mr. Pearson would flood Canada with meats, poultry, canned and fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products and manufactured goods from countries with lower costs or mass-production methods.

"Ask the producers how they would like unrestricted competition in these key commodities," said Mr. Hees.

OPEN BORDERS

He said the Pearson plan was to open Canada's borders for "12 months of the year" to such competitive products.

"Make no mistake, if the Pearson plan is put out all the smaller industries out of business in a very short time. . . . Only the big ones will survive."

"Mike is a nice fellow. . . . a history teacher. . . . but he's no businessman," said Mr. Hees.

Esquimalt-Saanich Progressive Conservative candidate George Chatterton—a "man who is going places in our parliamentary system," said Mr. Hees—attacked charges by Liberal candidate David Groos that Canada had the highest rate of unemployment in the Western world.

'GREATLY BELIEVED'

"In this area at least, the problem is greatly relieved. . . . The Victoria office of the National Employment Service reports that it appears a record will be set in job placements. . . . There is a shortage of skilled workers in certain fields. . . . in our riding, right here, at Fairley Aviation, there are certain shortages of skilled workers."

Last Call For Voters

Courts of revision on federal voters' list will sit for last time today before June 18. Victoria returning officer Edmond J. de St. Jorre, standing in rear, talks with voter who wants change in listing. Court will sit at YMCA from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. today. It will also be held at three locations in Esquimalt-Saanich. (Colonel photo.)

Job Proposal Like Russia Says Starr

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Labour Minister Starr said Friday night the type of full employment promised by the New Democratic Party is that which prevails in Soviet Russia.

He said NDP leader T. C. Douglas has proposed a program which would mean that workers would be forced to take certain jobs and would need a permit to quit.

THE CAMPAIGN | X

All-Candidate Meetings Set

The Esquimalt-Saanich federal election campaign will be shivered next week by two, perhaps three, all-candidate meetings.

The meetings will be held at East Sooke Community Hall at 8 p.m. Monday and at Strawberry Vale Hall at 8 p.m. Friday. There is also a chance of an all-candidates' meeting at Royal Oak Thursday evening.

FULTON TO TALK

Federal Justice Minister David Fulton will speak on behalf of Conservative George Chatterton at Shawigan Lake Community Hall Tuesday.

In addition, Mr. Chatterton plans meetings at Brentwood Women's Institute Thursday and McMoran's Place Wednesday.

Liberal David Groos will speak at Tillicum School at 8 p.m. Tuesday and at Langford Community Hall Thursday—providing there is no all-candidate meeting.

Also in Esquimalt-Saanich the NDP's Geoff Mitchell will appear before Victoria Labor Council on Wednesday while Soerod Reginald Pong plans

Advance Polls to Open June 9 and 11 in Area

Advance polls will be open June 9 and 11 so residents of Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich ridings who can't vote June 18 will be able to cast ballots in the federal election.

Any registered voter can take advantage of the advance polling facilities, returning of folders said yesterday, provided he makes a sworn declaration he will not be able to vote locally on election day.

CAN BE SWORN

Affidavits to this effect can be sworn in the presence of the deputy returning officer on duty at the advance polls. Polls will be open for a day voting from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In Victoria there will be seven advance polling places: Scout hall, 525 Fraser; 2606 Douglas; Imperial Motor Hotel, 1691 Douglas; YMCA, 1203 Blanshard; 1327 Carnesew St.; St. Patrick's school, 2368

Trent; Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 1175 Beach Drive.

Advance polling in Esquimalt-Saanich will be at two rural locations, and three places in the urban section of the riding.

Rural advance polls are at Knights of Pythias hall, Sidney, and Colwood Community Hall.

Urban voters may cast advance ballots at St. Luke's Church Hall, 3821 Cedar Hill Cross Road; St. Peter's Church Hall, St. Peter's Road; St. Martin's-in-the-Field Hall, 537 Obed.

Election literature sent by mail will advise voters which is their polling place, both for the advance poll and on June 18.

Meanwhile, courts of revision are sitting for the third and final time today in both ridings to hear applications for changes in the voters list. In Victoria the court will sit in the YMCA, 1203 Blanshard, from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

In Esquimalt-Saanich the courts will be in session during the same hours at the three urban advance polling places listed above.

Douglas Scheme

Youth Corps for Canada

REGINA (CP)—T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party Leader, speaking to 250 young party members Friday night, many of whom were not of voting age, outlined a new plank of his election program—a Canadian youth service.

The program, by Mr. Douglas, described much like President Kennedy's peace corps, was not compared to the United States group.

Mr. Douglas said the service was one of his "pet projects."

The service would be composed of young men and women of all kinds who would volunteer for the service and would be sent by the government under auspices of the United Nations to all parts of the world to aid underdeveloped nations.

"You have to send a group of young people to teach them to set up co-operatives, trade unions and show them how to work together," Mr. Douglas said.

The service would provide fields of agriculture, health, education and resources development.

Mr. Douglas said he hopes some day that Canadian heroes will not be those measured by the number of persons killed, but by those who can point to the number of lives they have saved.

Expansion Needed For More Welfare

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Friday night social welfare programs cannot continue to be extended as in the recent past without higher production and economic expansion.

He said before a standing-room-only crowd in a theatre here that Canada must extend its trade competitively be necessary.

We're Only Alternative Declares Liberal Chief

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson said Friday night the only effective alternative to the Progressive Conservative government is for people to vote Liberal on June 18.

The Liberal leader said the recent announcement that $116,000,000 dollars had been spent out of the exchange fund in the first days of May before the dollar was devalued indicated "there was a run on our dollar—a run on confidence."

NDP Disowns Demonstrators

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says Friday that the prolonged interference during a rally for Prime Minister Diefenbaker here Wednesday night was planned and carried out by "self-proclaimed supporters of the New Democratic Party."

NDP headquarters promptly denied that the party either organized or condoned a demonstration.

Medicare Through Taxes?

TORONTO (UPI)—A simple medical insurance plan of which the government would pay half of all bills by taxation deduction was proposed Friday to the royal commission on health.

Dr. J. W. McGillivray, 32, of Collingwood, Ont., put forward the 50-50 partnership plan which he said maintained a doctor-patient relationship, provided for government participation and was administratively simple compared with other plans proposed to the commission.

Under the plan, the patient would pay directly to the doctor and obtain a receipt. Dr. McGillivray said these receipts would then be sent with the taxpayer's yearly income tax forms to the government, who would refund or deduct from the amount payable, 50 per cent of total medical expenses.

"This simple plan requires only the patient, the doctor and the doctor's receipt pad and the income tax department," Dr. McGillivray said. He further suggested government protection for persons unable to pay doctors immediately and a sliding scale for "catastrophic" medical bills. This way the government would pay 50 per cent up to a certain amount and then 100 per cent of any excess.

Thugs Take $10,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Two armed men escaped with $10,000 Friday after robbing the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch in suburban St. Laurent. No one was hurt during the robbery. The getaway car has not been located.

Truck Strike Talks Fail

MONTREAL (CP) — Behind-the-scenes talks aimed at settling the eight-week strike of 1,400 truck drivers have collapsed, a spokesman for eight strike-bound trucking firms said Friday.

Robert Cureton, chairman of the negotiating committee of the Motor Transport Industrial Relations Bureau, said it now appears "unlikely" there will be a quick end to the walkout, plagued in its early stages by outbreaks of violence.

Mr. Cureton said that during 5½ days of talks all the clauses in dispute were rewritten to the satisfaction of all parties but Friday the International Teamsters Union (Ind.) rejected the new clauses and reverted to the drivers' old demands. He said the companies' offer included a 24-cent-an-hour wage increase, eight cents more than recommended by a conciliation board but six cents under the union's demand.

Garden Notes

Orange Siberians

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

The Siberian wallflower, cheiranthus allionii, is a familiar flower hereabouts, and few flower beds are more striking and eye-catching in late spring than a good-sized massing of these plants with their vivid orange coloring. The plant literally smothers itself with small flowers of the richest orange shade, about the same hue as that of the old-fashioned Scotch marigold.

While the Siberian wallflower is a true perennial, the plants are best treated as biennials, for they bloom so prolifically and so continuously as to flower themselves to death. In any case, seedling plants put on a much better show in their second year than over-age veterans.

For flowers to bloom next spring, the seeds should be started around the middle of this month. You'll need a prepared seed bed in a sunny and open position with no protection of any kind, for these plants are aggressively hardy and resent coddling. The bed should be dug over and raked level, trodden down and raked again to a fine tilth. A good sprinkle of lime, one cupful per square yard, should be raked into the surface at this stage and will do a lot to promote the health of your seedling plants.

With the seed bed completed, make your seed furrows half an inch deep and space your rows at least a foot apart so you can get in there with the Dutch hoe after growth has commenced. Regular stirring of the soil between the rows should start as soon as the seedlings can be distinguished clearly.

I always wet down my seed furrows with a weak fertilizer solution before the seed is sown, partly to provide some quick nutrients for the seedlings as they germinate and partly to provide a damp surface for the seeds to cling to as I sow. It is annoying, to say the least, to see your expensive seeds blown away by some errant gust of wind.

Sow very thinly indeed and cover lightly with sifted soil. Even with the thinnest sowing, though, the seedlings are almost sure to come up too crowded in the row and will need thinning. Thin until the baby plants are standing three inches apart and you can get in a spot of hand-weeding during the thinning operation.

Before the young plants become at all crowded, they should be transplanted from the seed bed to a nursery row in full sun where they can spread themselves out a bit more. This will probably be around the end of July or early August so there should be room for them in the vegetable plot where one of the early crops has been cleared away. Space the plants this time six inches apart and don't forget to rake in a little lime first, for all the wallflowers are incurable lime addicts.

Now, midsummer isn't exactly the best time of the year to move plants in full growth so the transplanting will have to be done with considerable care. Water the plants in individually as each one is set in its hole and use Transplantone or vitamin B1 in the water as a precaution against transplanting shock. It also is a good idea if you can extemporize a bit of shade for the plants during their first 48 hours in their new home.

Keep the plants hoed and watered regularly throughout the late summer, with a little soluble fertilizer in the water occasionally. By planting-out time in the fall, you should have a grand lot of sturdy, stocky specimens to set out in the front beds for flowering the following spring.

Market Ruined Our Meals

PARIS—The trouble with being a big investor in the American stock market, such as we happen to be, is one day you're a hero to your family and the next day you're a bum.

We remember a year ago when we announced we had made a killing in Wall Street.

"I made $100 today on AT&T," we announced at dinner time.

"What's AT&T?" our eight-year-old son wanted to know.

"It's the telephone company," our wife explained to him. "And you have the smartest daddy in the whole wide world."

"Well, don't exaggerate," we said. "I'll have to admit I have a feel for the market. It's something that has to be born in you, I guess."

"But you deserve the credit," our wife said. "After all, the stock market isn't your business and for somebody like yourself to make a hundred dollars a day is just tremendous. How do you ever do it?"

"Instinct plus a knowledge of American economy," we said modestly. "Even my broker was surprised when he heard about my investing ability. He offered me a partnership in the company. Merrill, Lynch, Fenner, Smith and Buchwald—how does that sound to you, mother?"

"Why does your name have to be last?" our wife wanted to know.

"I'm not thinking of joining them. I'd rather speculate on my own. Now this is the way I have it figured out. If I can make a hundred dollars a day AT&T, and $50 a day on IBM, and $30 a day with Polaroid, I can give up this newspaper racket and devote myself full time to playing the stock market. I hate to see a talent for investing go to waste."

Our wife said nervously, "But can't you lose money in the stock market, too?"

"You can if you don't know what you're doing," we said. "That's why those of us close to the Street are worried about the amateurs who are now in the market. But if you pick your companies carefully the only thing your stocks can do is go up."

"Are we going to be rich?" our son wanted to know.

"You will never want for anything," we said, patting him on the head. "But being a millionaire's son will have its responsibilities. I can only give you the wherewithal. It's up to you to use your fortune wisely."

Every week or so we came home and announced a new coup we had just pulled off. One week it was Zenith Radio, the next week Texas Instruments, the following week Warner Bros. We had a quarter with Transistor, and an adventure in Standard Oil.

It was just a question of time before we would have enough money to become a Republican.

But then it happened. A month ago, without warning, everything that went up started going down. As we came home each evening our wife and children waited excitedly to hear what we had accomplished that day in the way of furthering their trust funds.

At first we lied, but pretty soon even they realized that all was not going well, particularly when we cut everyone's allowance by 50 per cent.

The bottom fell out though, when we warned our wife that from now on we could only give her house money on margin.

You can imagine how little we look forward to eating at home these days.

Two Babies During Film

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Tarzan producer Sy Weintraub tells me that, in India, all movie stars work in 22 films simultaneously. "They give each producer one of two days a month and a film sometimes takes 10 years to make." One leading lady had two babies during the making of one movie. "She started as an ingenue," said Weintraub, "and finished as a matron." We'll soon be seeing Jack Mahoney in Tarzan Goes to India. "This was the first film in India," producer Weintraub told me proudly, "to be made in eight weeks."

Jose Ferrer adores Rosemary Clooney and Yugoslavia. In that order. He is telephoning Rosie in California, and he will make his next two movies—Conspiracy of Silence and Long Ships—in Yugoslavia.

Briton Tom Courtney will star in the English film version of Billy Liar. The play brought fame to Albert Finney.

Jean Simmons will star in Lord Jim for her lord and master, Mr. Richard Brooks.

The Henry Shereks took a chance and put their own money into The Affair in London. It was a hit, and New Yorkers will see it in October.

They say about Lionel Bart's London play, Blitz, that it is worse than the real blitz. But this is because, after Oliver, Londoners expected too much.

Ricardo Montalban's graphic wordage: "A woman doing the twist is like a woman playing the cello."

If you see Dr. No star James Bond limping, it's because Sean Connery, who plays the suave, sadistic sophisticate, has just come out of the hospital where he had a cartilage in his knee removed. Sean will be in New York when the picture opens there.

Teen-Agers 'Obsessed With Sex'

CHICAGO (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham said last night U.S. teen-agers are obsessed with sex and held the churches partly responsible for a widespread ignorance of moral standards.

"Young people are obsessed by sex, yet at the same time troubled and often conscience-stricken," Graham said in a talk prepared for the third night of his Chicago crusade.

Graham said visits to hundreds of high school and college campuses have shown him that young people want to know "what is wrong with sex before marriage."

Graham said the Bible is clear on the question of premarital sex.

"The Bible teaches that sexual experience outside of marriage is sin."

Red Tape Shuts Depot Till Monday

Red tape has delayed opening of a downtown Victoria depot for inspection of meat for sale to the public.

The mechanics of setting up the inspection depot were completed yesterday but at the last minute officials found inspector Dr. D. W. Gaunt had to be appointed officially.

His appointment was made by Coun. G. K. Sammon, chairman of the metropolitan health board, and provincial Agriculture Minister Richter.

The depot will open Monday and operate five days a week with inspections between 8 and 9 a.m. each day.

Three areas within the health board's area will not be protected by the meat inspection service—Salt Spring Island, Saanich and Central Saanich.

Salt Spring was exempted to avoid having to ship meat to Victoria for inspection and then back to the island for sale.

The downtown inspection depot at the city scales on Store Street will close Oct. 1, when two abattoirs will go into operation.

Kidnapped Girl Seen In Cafe?

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—Police are investigating a report that a nine-year-old girl kidnapped last year in Tacoma, Wash., was seen here Thursday.

The blonde-haired girl was taken from her Tacoma home before dawn Aug. 31 last year.

Police believe an intruder removed the girl from her bedroom.

Saanich Seeks Parkland

Saanich will undertake a major parkland acquisition program if ratepayers approve council plans to borrow a large sum of money for the project, Reeve Stanley Murphy said yesterday.

Public approval will be sought in December for the purchase of 13 acres of waterfront property in Gordon Head and the 112-acre McRae estate which includes Cedar Hill golf course, he said.

The Gordon Head property is just off Shoreway Road and has nearly one-half-mile of waterfront. It would be developed as a natural park for picnicking.

The 18-hole golf course at the other property would be maintained while the rest eventually would be developed as a Beacon Hill type park, said the reeve. The McRae family was interested in seeing it become public parkland, he added.

Amount of the money bylaw was not known yesterday, but indications were it would be substantial.

Reeve Murphy said the two land areas are considered essential to a municipality with a population nearing 50,000 and expected to be about 75,000 in the next decade.

Rough Play Rapped at World Soccer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — World soccer officials Friday ordered referees to stop rough play to prevent the championship matches from turning into slugfests and brawls.

A score of players have suffered broken bones, cuts and bruises since the World Cup championship opened three days ago.

The International Federation of Football Associations held an emergency meeting to discuss rough play after a flood of protests. Afterwards, it announced that all referees have been told to clamp down on rough play.

Brazilian coach Aymore Moreira said he would make an official protest about the standard of refereeing.

"The list of injured players in Thursday's matches show that if strong measures are not taken this championship may become a battlefield."

There were no matches Friday and trainers and coaches worked desperately trying to get their battered players in

Dodgers Share First Place After Two Wins Over Phils

Los Angeles Dodgers, hottest of the lot, in a league of streaking teams, swept past Philadelphia twice yesterday and claimed a share of first place in the National League.

Playing before 24,799 fans in Philadelphia, the Dodgers won their 12th straight game, 11-4, in the afternoon, then tied San Francisco Giants for the lead with an 8-5 win in the second game to extend the streak to 13 games.

Dodgers did it on sheer power in the opener, going for on their first game in the Polo Grounds since they left New York for San Francisco.

Meanwhile Cincinnati and Pittsburgh clung doggedly to the terrific pace, the Reds beating Chicago Cubs, 5-2, for their 20th win in 26 games and the Pirates stopping Houston Colts, 8-4, for their 15th win in the last five games.

The Reds are five games back of the Dodgers, the Pirates six.

GRAND-SLAMMER

New York fans who used to delight in the play of Willie Mays saw him hit his 17th homer, tops in the majors, Willie McCovey belted two and Jim Davenport added a grand-slammer as Giants gave Billy Pierce enough of a cushion to survive a five-run come-back by the Mets to post his eighth win against no defeats.

League, as both clubs got fine pitching performances.

TIGERS TAMED

Terry Perry retired the first 16 men he faced for the Indians and wound up with a four-hit, 7-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers, who were shooting for their 11th victory in 13 games.

Yankees drew the largest crowd of the season in the American League — 51,584 — and beat Los Angeles, 6-2, on four-hit pitching by Ralph Terry.

Gary Player Takes Lead At Memphis

MEMPHIS (AP) — Scowling intently over his putts, South Africa's Gary Player peeled off a 4 - under - par 66 Friday to take the lead in the $40,000 Memphis Open golf tournament.

The 35-31 over the 6,501-yard, 34-36 — 70 Colonial Country Club course gave the Johannesburg star a 36-hole score of 131, a total of 9 under par.

Favored Arnold Palmer, trying for his fourth straight tournament victory, faded further back in the pack by adding 35-36-71 to his first round 71 for 142.

Consistent Don January finished a stroke behind Player, adding a 35-32-67 to his first round 65 for 132.

Australia's Bruce Crampton leaped into contention at 133 by scoring a 33-30-63, equalling the course percentage record.

Braced with Crampton at 133 were Tommy Jacobs (68-65), Gene Littler (66-67), Don Whit (67-66) and Jay Hebert (68-65).

Dedicated Man Fulfils Dream

Behind the ultra-modern facade of the Salvation Army's Matson Lodge, which looks out over West Bay in Esquimalt, is the dream of an iron-willed man who has dedicated his life to the homeless, the aged and the destitute.

Salvation Army Commissioner W. Wycliffe Booth, whose vision was primarily responsible for turning the $1,000,000 dream into reality, couldn't restrain the ring of pride which crept into his voice as he spoke at the lodge opening yesterday.

"A great thing has been done," he said. "If the sunset of life can be made beautiful, it will be so here. This is a moment that I will remember for the rest of my life."

Some 400 Victorians turned out to tour the giant home and hear Commissioner Booth dedicate it to the service of the community.

"I hope it will be a house of peace—a house of joy for the last full years of life." As he spoke, the commissioner reiterated the theme upon which his organization's philosophy is based.

Matson Lodge Opens

"I dedicate this house to those who are lonely, to those who have had to abandon the circle of loved ones, to those who are friendless and devoid of hope."

Though he has championed the cause of Matson Lodge—and $22,000,000 worth of similar projects throughout the nation—without respite since he took office seven years ago, Commissioner Booth still believes them to be little more than "second best."

The soft-spoken leader of the Salvation Army in Canada was enthusiastic about the good work a home such as the lodge can do in a community, but frankly admitted he wouldn't want his own mother looked after in such an institution. "Our generation is rapidly losing respect for its senior citizens and responsibility for their care at home is declining every year."

He agreed there is a much stronger desire for independence among older people now than ever before, but felt the steady decline of interest in the elderly on the part of younger people is approaching serious proportions.

Welfare Minister Wesley Black officially turned the key which opened Matson Lodge to a deluge of visitors.

Applications for residence are coming in so quickly the Salvation Army expects the lodge to be full by September of this year.

The 143-bed institution will remain open for public inspection through today.

The lodge stands on part of the estate of J. S. H. Matson, former owner of The Daily Colonist. The property and a mansion which formerly stood on it were deeded to the Salvation Army in the will of his widow, Mrs. Ada T. Matson.

Earlier plans for turning the house into an institution were scrapped when Salvation Army officials decided a bigger building was needed.

'Drop Legal Charges'

IWA Members Reject Hillcrest Peace Plan

One Bus Not Enough

By KLAUS MUENTER

Duncan-area members of the IWA's big Nanaimo-Duncan local last night rejected a provincial government mediator's proposal for settlement of the long, bitter Hillcrest free bus dispute.

Deputy labor minister William Sands, named recently as a mediator by Labor Minister Peterson, recommended Thursday that Hillcrest Lumber Co. restore one of the two free buses it withdrew Jan. 2, touching off the dispute.

NO MENTION

He suggested the company put back the bus which took 45 Duncan loggers daily to the firm's operations at Mesachie Lake. But there was no mention of the bus which took 20 other employees from Lake Cowichan to work.

A meeting of 150 local members here last night turned this down because only one bus was mentioned.

LEGAL CHARGES

And it instructed IWA official Jack Moore to go back to the company, seeking an agreement that the company provide sufficient transportation for all loggers and drop all legal charges against the local and its officers.

Local president Weldon Juvenville said he would recommend acceptance of such an agreement.

ACTION LACKING

The provincial Labor Relations Board some time ago gave Hillcrest permission to prosecute the local and Mr. Juvenville. No action of this kind has ever been taken.

This permission was granted at the same time as the board issued a "cease and desist" order against the local and its president.

MILL WILL CLOSE

If the issue isn't settled by June 15, the company's main mill will be closed, putting 240 men out of work.

Before the IWA decision, Hillcrest said yesterday it is prepared to have the Duncan bus on the job Monday morning. No free transportation for the Lake Cowichan workers was included.

FOUR MONTHS

Mr. Sands' proposal was to keep the one bus going for four months while company and union representatives tried to find a permanent solution.

Plants Get Smoke 'Breather'

Promised prosecutions against Victoria industries breaking the city's anti-smoke bylaw were further delayed at a meeting of the smoke advisory committee yesterday.

Earlier, committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell had promised prosecutions would be ordered during the meeting but the meeting ended with no such order.

FULL EVALUATION

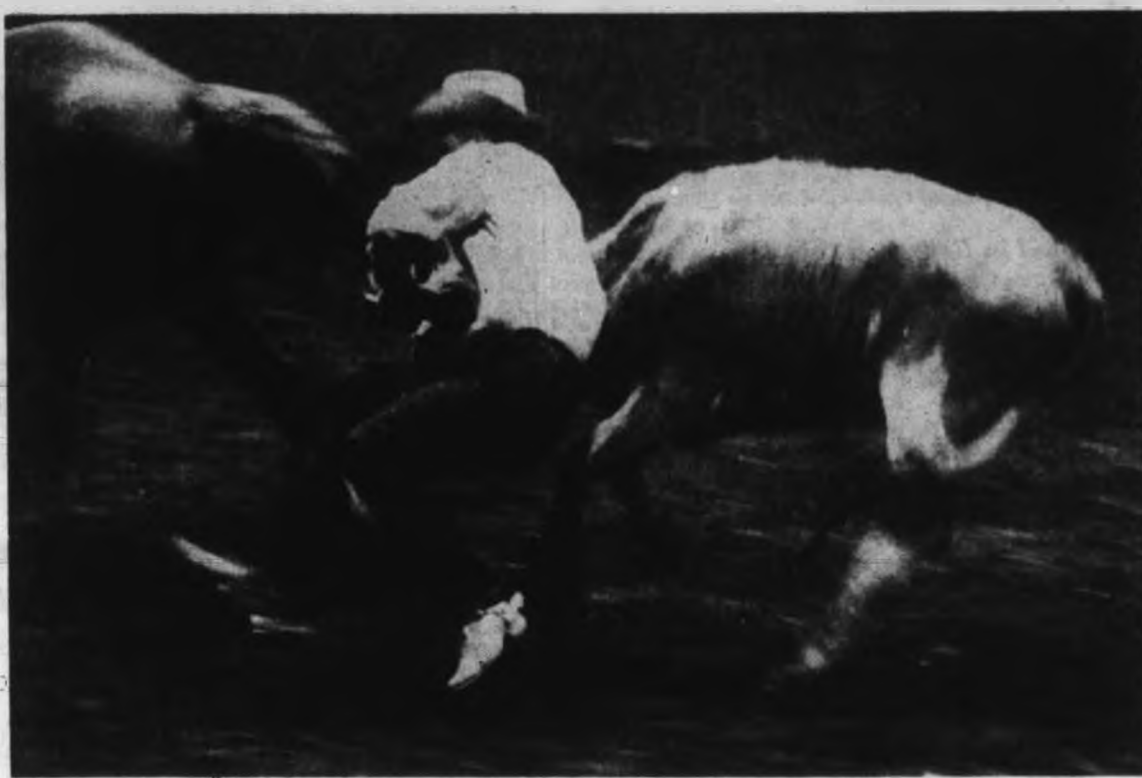

Instead, the committee was assured a full evaluation of the smoke problem was about to be undertaken by a staff of technicians.

The assurance came in a comprehensive report from William Jorgenson, head of the city's planning and inspection division.

PLANT LOCATIONS

Mr. Jorgenson told the committee he felt part of the problem is caused by location of smoke-producing plants and Victoria's prevailing southwest winds, blowing smoke into overlapping patterns.

City engineer James Garnett supported Mr. Jorgenson's plan to investigate the smoke problem fully.

Cent More July 1 For Bread

Price of bread in Victoria is expected to increase by one cent a loaf July 1.

The price hike will be the result of an increase in the price of flour, which was brought about by recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar, said a local baker.

One baker reports salesmen of several milling firms have refused to accept any orders at the current price after July 1.

Shortage In Skilled Expected

A labor shortage in skilled shipyard trades is anticipated within the next few weeks by the Victoria office of the National Employment Service.

The employment picture here is brighter than at any time in 1961, with the total number of job seekers about 3,000 below the lowest figure recorded last year.

"The number of men seeking work is perhaps the most notable figure," said a spokesman for the NES. He said the total of 1,946 is the lowest recorded at any time since October, 1957, when the count was 1,929.

The early start of the tourist season has also increased the number of jobs for women.

Riders Sent Flying

'I've Seen Stock Treated Worse'

Horses bucked, cowboys flew in every direction—and officials from the SPCA looked on with pained expressions—as the Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen rodeo opened last night.

No more than 1,000 spectators—most of them enthusiastic—turned out for the first performance in Memorial Arena, but Kinsmen Club officials said they expected a better crowd at today's performance.

SPCA secretary-manager David Beeching, who spent the evening behind the rules laid down by the Cow-boys' Protective Association.

Mr. Beeching said, "and these rules are designed to restrain cruel or unusual treatment of the animals."

"I will say that I have seen horses and cattle treated worse than these are," he concluded. He declined to comment further, merely pointing out that the rodeo still had two more performances to run.

Few of the bucking horse rides were impressive, but Washington cowboy Buzz Peth tied his calf in 16.2 seconds to win the first go-round in the calf-roping event.

A young Kamloops cowboy, Bob Gottfriedson, ran up a score of 167 in the second section of the saddle-horse competition. The riders, including half a dozen of the country's top rodeo money-winners, are competing for points, and prizes will not be awarded before tonight.

Police Put No Premium On Ticket for Tourist

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

DOUBLE BITE: A friend of ours was in the Victoria city police traffic office the other day when an irate American tourist walked in.

He'd been given a traffic ticket.

The tourist paid up with an American dollar.

If he was mad for getting the ticket he was positively beside himself when the traffic people refused to pay him the premium on his currency.

There was, they said, no provision to pay the eight cents owing him.

Our friend did his part to make the tourist feel he was indeed welcome in our fair city—ticket or no ticket.

He dug into his own pocket and gave the tourist a dime.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl who will be 11 years old in 10 months. I like a boy in my room at school. He has freckles, red hair and a nice smile. All the girls think he is very cute.

Whenever I look at him he starts to eat writing paper, erasers, or the lead out of his pencil. Yesterday he ate up his English homework before he realized what he was doing. My mother says it's because he likes me and when I look at him he gets nervous. She says I should do him a favor and stop looking at him.

I like him best of all and I don't want to look at anyone else, Miss Landers. But I'm afraid he'll get sick from all the junk he is eating. What shall I do?

TEXAS GIRL

Dear Girl: Your mother is probably right. Freckleface is self-conscious when the eyes of Texas are upon him. As a contribution to his general health, I suggest you find fewer occasions to look at him.

Dear Ann Landers: I married for the second time five years ago. My husband hates by 21-year-old son who is away at college. When the boy comes home for vacations the cold war begins. It goes on until he leaves. I'm dreaming it already. I don't want to take sides, but I must tell you that my husband never misses an opportunity to belittle the boy. My son has tried to be pleasant and friendly but he has been met by a wall of icy silence so many times he has given up.

I have a fine job and pay for the boy's college, his clothes and allowance. My husband doesn't spend one dime on him. All I ask is that my husband treat my son civilly. He reads your column every day. I pray you will have the wisdom to touch his heart.

She Drives School Bus

KAKABEKA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Most women can readily manage a household with a husband, two boys and a girl. Many can handle the additional chore of looking after 50 head of cattle.

Mrs. Arnold Maxwell does all this and more. She keeps a rural school bus on schedule as well as being one of the most active club women in Comber Township.

She also does all her own baking and sews most of the clothes she and her daughter wear.

An average day starts about 7 a.m. with breakfast for five and four hearty lunches. The children then leave to meet their school bus, a different one from that driven by Mrs. Maxwell, while she starts off on her 15-mile rounds.

Returning home, she has a full day with washing, ironing, baking, house cleaning and taking care of those cattle before heading out on the road again to reach the school at 3.45 p.m. Evenings are well-filled. Mrs. Maxwell serves as secretary-treasurer of the township school area, president of the Women's Institute and assistant leader of the 4-H Club.

SEVEN THOUSAND nurses, "Angels in Uniform," carrying banners blazing "Angels in Hell" marched through the streets of London yesterday in protest against what the NEWS OF THE WORLD described as "The Seven-penny insult."

This is the miserly 7d-a-day or two-per-cent pay rise rejected by them when they asked for "reasonable" all around increases. Crowds of people lined the streets to cheer the girls in blue and grey. In procession they marched from Hyde Park to Marble Arch.

Eyes the Only Give-Away

By HELEN PARMELEE

I've decided that those mysterious Eastern women who lurk so exotically behind veils have a distinct advantage over us job-holding, slacks-wearing, most-ruling North American females.

On a recent trip to Casablanca and Tangier in Morocco, I was prepared—in my emancipated way—to feel sorry for the women of the casbah.

Instead, I returned rather in awe of their supreme femininity, their sheltered existence, their nightgownish, cover-all, flowing robes.

Just think of all the secrets we could hide behind veil and robe: unkempt hair (and who's to know?); no make-up (and who's to know?); a face like a witch (and who's to know?); a bulging figure (and who's to know?).

The only give-away is the eyes which peer out above the veil. And do the Moroccan women know how to make the most of those eyes?

In a jarring—and alluring—contrast to their otherwise ultra-demure appearance, the Moslem women enhance their eyes with the latest in eye make-up: eyebrow pencil, eye shadow, eye-liner, mascara.

Such so-called mysteries of the East are founded on good old Western scientific cosmetology!

WHAT SHOWS

The only other part, in addition to the eyes, that shows when Moslem women appear on the street, are the feet.

Their robes stop at the ankle and beneath you can glimpse a nylon stocking and the latest in Parisian high heeled shoes.

However, my husband as-ures me that this additional setting in which they were displayed: on one side an Arab bazaar selling brass trays and camel saddles... on the other side a butcher shop with sheep, pig and calves heads hanging in a row.

Another thing which astonished me in Morocco: the amount and variety of Western cosmetics for sale.

The only difference was the Indians Must Solve Own Problems Says United Church

SASKATOON (C.P.) — The Saskatchewan conference of the United Church of Canada approved a resolution Friday which said Indians must assume responsibility for the solution of their own problems.

The conference asked the Indian Affairs branch to institute a program of leadership training for band council members because of their leadership role on the reservations.

In view of the financial conditions hindering Indian integration, the 350 delegates agreed to recommend to the Indian Affairs branch that consideration be given to a plan of supplementing wages in areas of employment which did not provide an adequate income for Indians off the reserve.

The conference also authorized United Church workers to consult with Indian workers of other religious denominations during the coming year.

West Coast Mass Choir Will Sing in Park Here

One of the biggest choirs ever to sing in Beacon Hill Park will be heard this Sunday when 450 members of 22 Sunday School choirs representing churches all the way from the West Coast through Greater Victoria to Sidney will appear.

Accompanied by the bands of Mount View High School and S. J. Willis Junior High School, the mass choir will lead the music for the Greater Victoria centennial Sunday rally starting at 3 p.m. at the Cameron band shell.

The 22 choirs will represent 68 Sunday schools in the area, which will also be represented.

The music will be held together by Howard Denike conducting the joint band. Eight choir directors will "clue in" the vocalists.

Parents and friends of those taking part in the rally are invited to attend, but because of the great number expected are advised to bring their own folding chairs.

Sunday at 10:45 a.m. there will be a holiness meeting, and at 3 p.m. a review of the forces, known as a corps review, with a salvation meeting following at 7 p.m.

WITH BRIGADIERS

Commissioner and Mrs. Booth will be accompanied by Brig. Arnold Brown, head of the Salvation Army publicity department in Toronto, and by Brig. and Mrs. L. Pindred of Vancouver.

Grandson of the founder and first general, William Booth, and second son of the second general, Bramwell Booth, Commissioner Booth has a rich heriitage of Salvation Army knowledge and training.

Born at High Barnet, England, he entered the work of the Army there in 1916. In the intervening years he has travelled widely, serving with Mrs. Booth at International Headquarters in London, in France, Switzerland and Norway, where they were appointed to the command in 1951.

Mrs. Booth, prominent in women's work wherever the two have served, was Capt. Renee Peyron whose parents were Territorial Leaders of the Salvation Army in France.

SIX CHILDREN

The couple has six children, four of whom are Salvation Army officers serving in the United States, England, France and Italy.

Commissioner Booth is the third of his family to lead the Army in Canada. The others were Commandant Herbert Booth, an uncle, and Commander Evangeline Booth, an aunt.

Umbundu Bible

TORONTO (C.P.) — Millicent Howse, a United Church of Canada missionary in Angola for 25 years, has just completed translation of the Bible into Umbundu, an African dialect.

Ms. Howse told the annual meeting of the Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada Friday it will be the only bilingual Bible in existence.

Clergyman Set For Coast Tour

OTTAWA (UPI) — United Church missionary Norman Mackenzie of Toronto will tour western provinces this month to launch the Canadian co-operative movement's foreign aid program.

President Ralph Staples of the Co-operative Union of Canada said Mackenzie's mission will be to seek funds for a permanent program of "self-help projects in one particular country, to be chosen later."

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Canada faces no greater problem than the development of Canadian unity. Out of our many languages, our different cultures, races and nations, we must develop a Canadian harmony in which traditions and faiths are preserved and all have the utmost possible freedom of self-expression and self-development.

Patriotism may be the last refuge of the scoundrel, as Dr. Johnson said, but the man without patriotism is a scoundrel.

Some years ago the beloved Padre, Canon Scott, described the Vimy pilgrimage of 1936 and the unveiling of the monument designed by Allward. The unveiling was attended by thousands of Canadian soldiers who had survived the horrors of the First World War. The Last Post was sounded and two minutes of silence followed before the reveille.

No Visible Cross

There is no visible Cross, but the position and attitude of this dead or dying man between the two pylons suggested crucifixion with extraordinary dramatic effect. Just as the Last Post was sounded, a ray of sunshine fell through the parted clouds on this crucified figure and, as the reveille sounded, the clouds rolled away and a golden light fell over the plain. The onlookers stood spellbound.

Well, we are more than two races, more than two faiths. If you go to the Presbyterian Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul in Montreal, you will find a memorial window to a Jewish officer named Cohen.

Indignant Scotsmen

It is said that when he was first appointed to a Highland regiment they were indignant that any other than a Scotsman should be in that regiment.

But such a fine man he was, so heroic was his conduct, that, when this Church was built, his comrades spontaneously dedicated one of the chief windows to him.

Is all this not symbolic of the splendid truth that brave and good men of every race and nation have died that Canada might live? I have no use for intolerant bigots who promote disunity.

I am impatient with craven and timid spirits who see no great destiny before Canada tomorrow. We have left too many of our comrades on the hills to abandon the heights.

U.S. College Honors Victorians

Two Victorians, former students at Notre Dame University College in Nelson, have been awarded degrees by Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts in humanities or social science was conferred on Nestor Halowski and Grégoire Hynes.

Halowski, son of Mrs. Anne Halowski, now of Vancouver, majored in psychology. Miss Hynes, daughter of Mr. J. S. Hynes, 614 Vancouver Street, was a sociology major.

Both students attended Notre Dame in Nelson from 1958 to 1960, before going on to complete their studies at Gonzaga.

Cent as the name of a coin was first proposed in 1782 by Governor Morris, assistant to the U.S. finance superintendent.

Steadily Building A Collection Pays in the End

By INA D. D. UTHOFF

It may not be generally known that Prof. A. W. H. Johns, head of the art department at Victoria University, has been steadily building up a collection of paintings and graphics of no mean proportions or importance during the last 10 years.

Consisting mostly of the work of B.C. painters, it also includes an extensive print collection from further afield, a fine woodcut by Andre Biele, prints by Serino and Yoshida and a serigraph, Three Vases, by Maxwell Bates.

B. C. Binning's abstraction, Classic Landscape, dominates the current showing at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, and three Gordon Smith canvases, of which Spanish Banks is the most important, to attract one's attention.

There is an early Lawren Harris painting, Algoma, small in size but brilliant in color, which would be a treasure in any collection.

Emily Carr's Forest Scene must have been painted in the early 30s as it shows the strongly marked rhythms typical of this period of her work.

Of the three Shadbolts shown, my choice would be Under Mount Canigou for its lovely color. This one I had not seen before.

John Korner's work is always distinguished by its highly personal expression and Last Glimmer is no exception.

There is one each of the Boba's Interior Landscape from Bruno and a still life from Molly, Blue Hydrangeas. In the local work, Herbert Steiner's newly acquired Founders of the Castle dates back to his Berlin days but is one of the strongest things he has painted.

There are many other extremely interesting things in this show well worthy of mention but it will be on at the Gallery for the next three weeks, giving everyone the opportunity to see what a fine start has been made on the permanent collection of our future university.

South Africa

Runaway Chained Nightly

MACHANENG, Bechuanaland (Reuters)—A South African farmer who chained up a runaway African laborer at night has been convicted of man-stealing by the district commissioner here.

The farmer, Ronald Wilcox, 49, who crossed from the Transvaal into Bechuanaland to get the laborer back, was sentenced Thursday to pay a fine of 200 rand ($200) or spend 12 months in prison at hard labor.

The court was told that the laborer, Aaron Dikoko, walked to his home in Bechuanaland with an eight-foot chain attached to his leg. Wilcox told the court he gave Aaron new clothes worth 34 rand on the understanding that Aaron work off the amount as a farm laborer.

Aaron had sold the clothing for a third of its value a few days later and absconded. After returning at intervals and working a few days he went home to Bechuanaland saying he was ill. Wilcox claimed. After two years, Wilcox said, he took Aaron back and chained him up at night, releasing him for work each morning. Aaron escaped about six weeks later.

The Balkan states of northern Europe got their designation in the 19th century from the Turkish word meaning mountain.

Hutterite Children Ignore Tradition

ATHABASCA, Alta. (CP)—A 12-year-old Hutterite boy asked why the Hutterites wore black denim, long dresses and sect's long-standing tradition of kerchiefs. A young Hutterite child asked why the other children wore the things they did. The ice was broken.

ATTENDANCE GREW

But attendance at the Lahaville school 12 miles from this town 90 miles north of Edmonton grew out of necessity. When the first three families moved into the newly established 5,300-acre colony in the area, they had no funds for their own school.

At the Lahaville school, the Hutterites first hoped to obtain the use of an empty classroom. But because of the small number of students, county council urged them to allow the children to attend school with others.

One day the parents arrived with the children, told teacher William Hula to "take good care of them and learn them well," and left. Although invited to various functions, the parents haven't been back since. At first, the 40 other children at the two-room school wond-

Cash Reserve On Way Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's foreign exchange reserves were dropped to 92% U.S. cents from its previous level of 116% in the first two days of May before the dollar was devalued and "egged," and since have increased by $14,000,000, a finance department report showed Friday.

Altogether, the reserves of gold and U.S. dollars declined by $102,000,000 for the month as a whole to $1,483,000,000 at the close of business Thursday.

The heavy $116,000,000 outflow of foreign exchange reserves in the opening days of the month exceeded even the $115,000,000 decline which occurred for the whole month of April.

The Canadian dollar's value was dropped to 92% U.S. cents from its previous level of 116% in the first two days of May before the dollar was devalued and "egged," and since have increased by $14,000,000, a finance department report showed Friday.

The foreign exchange reserves, at $1,483,000,000, now have declined by $617,000,000 from their peak of $2,100,000,000 at the end of last October. This was as a result of government policy to funnel U.S. dollars onto the exchange market to offset strong downward pressures on the Canadian dollar, which occurred during the winter months.

The present standing of the reserves—lowest point in more than a decade—compares with $1,935,000,000 a year ago.

Investors Quit Canada Take $1,800,000 Loss

LONDON (Reuters)—One of Britain's biggest investment companies is to withdraw its investment in Canada with an estimated loss of about $600,000 ($1,800,000). It was announced yesterday.

Harold Samuel, head of the Land Securities Investment Trust, told his shareholders in a statement the company's affairs in Canada "had not prospered as we would have wished."

He added that "as there seemed to be no prospect of real improvement, the board decided to cease activities in Canada and repatriate the resulting funds which it is considered can be put to better use at home."

The company's total investment in Canada is $2,253,000 and it is estimated the assets, mainly properties, will produce $1,644,000.

Firm Control On Progress Philip's Plea

SEATTLE (CP)—Worship at the altar of progress should not blind people to the need to keep progress in all its forms firmly under control, Prince Philip said Friday night.

The Duke of Edinburgh was addressing 600 persons attending a formal black-tie dinner given in his honor by the English-Speaking Union of the United States during his two-day visit to Seattle and the world's fair.

STRESS ON FUTURE

He congratulated the state of Washington and Seattle for an enterprising and fascinating fair in which he said he found the most significant thing is the emphasis on the future.

"It is very easy to look back with pride on past achievements or even with remorse on past failures," he said. "But it is far more difficult to look forward with plans for a better world."

FROM OUR GRASP

"It is particularly difficult at this moment of explosive scientific and technological development, when the control of our destiny seems to be slipping from our grasp."

"Worship at the altar of progress is an increasingly popular manifestation but it should not blind people to the need to keep progress in all its forms firmly under control."

INDISCRIMINATELY

"In particular," the duke said, "I believe that we should concern ourselves that progress does not displace nature indiscriminately."

"Man's intellect may be self-sufficient, but man's spirit needs the refreshing and inspiring influence of the living natural world."

John D Sees More At Work

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker predicted Friday night Canadian unemployment will reach the lowest level in the country's history by the end of the summer.

He said results of government policies directed toward creating new jobs take time, but the results now are appearing.

Blast Far Above Earth

Today's 'High' Test Sparks Fierce 'No'

HONOLULU (UPI)—Imminent explosion of the United States' first rocket-borne high altitude nuclear bomb over Johnston Island touched off protests around the world and a scramble for high ground spectator seats in Hawaii.

Test Below 35th in Row

WASHINGTON (AP)—An underground nuclear test—the 35th to be announced by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission—was set off Friday at the Nevada test site.

Like most of the others in the Nevada series, the blast was of low yield. The AEC gave no other details.

Secret 'Eye' In Orbit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The U.S. Air Force announced Friday night that it had launched another secret satellite from nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base.

As in previous military launches, the air force gave no details beyond the fact that a satellite was launched and that it employed a Thor-Agena B rocket booster combination.

Red A-Subs In Pacific

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Soviet Russia has a nuclear-powered submarine in operation in the Pacific, Vice Admiral John Thatch, commander of U.S. anti-submarine warfare in the Pacific, said Friday. He said Communist submarine forces have increased both in size and quality.

Coldwell Unhurt In Island Crash

NANAIMO (Special)—Former national CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Port Alberni Ald. Thomas Barnett, NDP federal candidate for Comox-Alberni, escaped serious injury Thursday in a rear-end road collision one mile north of Nanaimo.

Ald. Barnett, driving Mr. Coldwell to Nanaimo to catch a ferry to Vancouver, had slowed his car for a parked truck whose driver had put out flares when a car struck his vehicle from behind.

GOOD CONDITION

Police identified the driver of the second car as Mrs. Fay Helmsing of Nanaimo. She suffered undetermined injuries and was in good condition in hospital here yesterday. Damage was estimated at $600.

A police car whisked Mr. Coldwell to his ferry.

SPEAKING TOUR

Ald. Barnett was home in time to leave at 3 p.m. with Port Alberni MLA John Squire for a speaking tour of Tofino and Ucluelet.

Ald. Barnett complained of a slightly stiff back after the mishap but indicated it was not serious.

City Surrenders To Worm Army Until Green Gone

MEMONONIE, Wis. (UPI)—Some Menomonie residents swayed Friday. Others sprayed. But most just sat back and waited for an army of canker or "measuring" worms to finish dining on everything green in sight and crawl back in the ground.

The worms invaded the city two weeks ago. They defoliated many trees to winter-like bareness and apparently chased off squirrels and rabbits.

Dr. John Lilly, a University of Wisconsin entomologist, told an emergency meeting of city council nothing could be done.

"You'll just have to wait until they crawl back into the ground," he said, "and that will be about a week."

Next time around, he advised, "spray early."

The invasion of canker worms upset the even tenor of life in the community.

One housewife slipped on a worm-covered sidewalk and broke her wrist.

Ruben Faulks built a fire in his fireplace on a warm spring day because the worms were coming down the chimney.

Ed Brown said he ran into such a swarm of the insects dropping off trees he ate some by mistake.

"They have a funny stink, but they don't taste too bad," he said.

The worms, which normally restrict their diet to trees, expanded their appetites to include flower and vegetable gardens.

County agent Howard Kuhn said the heavy infestation was due to ideal weather conditions that permitted hatching of most of the moth larvae.

Piper Piker

Slicker Snared Pickles

THREE OAKS, Mich. (AP)—The piper fellow who picked a peck of pickled peppers was a piker compared to the slicker who snared 2,400 pecks of pickles from a Three Oaks firm.

State police had the job Friday of trying to catch the culprit on complaint of Jack Weinberg, owner of the Manhattan Pickle company at Three Oaks.

Weinberg discovered yesterday that his firm had lost 600 bushels of pickles.

Investigators say the thief apparently used dip nets to snare pickles from the vats, leaving some to float on the surface of the vats to give an illusion of full measure. The thefts were discovered by employees emptying vats for processing.

Whirlwind Tour

Go See Fair Philip Smiles

SEATTLE (CP)—Prince Philip, departing from his prepared schedule at will to glimpse whatever caught his eye, made a whirlwind tour of the world's fair here Friday, setting vast crowds cheering and security officers to scratching their heads.

The crowd—several thousand, gathered around each pavilion he was to visit—pressed within a few feet of the royal visitor everywhere he went.

LETTER FOR QUEEN

There were no major incidents although shortly after his arrival at noon one woman about 40 pushed her way through the official party almost to the duke's elbow, shouting "I have a letter from the Queen." The duke smiled at her, then continued on his way as police moved her aside.

When he had concluded his tour he made a brief public address which seemed to take him by surprise.

"I have been told for some extraordinary reason," he said, "to say something to you."

"I can't think why. You are much better to go and see the exhibits themselves. I hope you enjoy them as much as I did. And a very good afternoon to you all."

SPACE NEEDLE

After viewing the British exhibit, loaded with scientific displays, Prince Philip walked across the fairgrounds to the monorail station. He took a shuttle trip aboard the monorail to downtown Seattle and back, then walked 200 yards across the grounds to the 600-foot-high space needle.

There he was guest of Century 21 President Joseph E. Gandy for lunch. Later he saw the Canadian, European and Indian pavilions, then went on a private cruise on Lake Washington.

With Cpl. Raymond Bate of Queen's Household Cavalry at attention at left, Prince Philip arrived in British exhibit at Seattle fair yesterday.

Royal Honors Range From Law to Low For Birthday List

LONDON (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth marked her official birthday by bestowing honors on several hundred of her subjects Friday, ranging from constitutional law expert Lord Radcliffe to internationally-known cartoonist David Lowe.

The 63-year-old Radcliffe, now a baron, is the only new viscount. He headed a five-man committee appointed to study British civil service security following the 42-year prison sentence passed on foreign service employee George Blake for spying.

COLONEL BLIMP

A knighthood was given to David A. C. Low, 71, whose cartoons appear in the influential Liberal Guardian. Low created the beloved Colonel Blimp—perpetually in a Turkish bath—to satirize the Conservatives.

Friday's birthday honors list appeared almost six weeks after the Queen's 36th birthday on April 21.

THREE RECORDS

Peter Snell, the New Zealand runner who holds three world records, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire.

Red-Guards Wound Girl, 17

BERLIN (AP)—East German border guards shot and wounded a teenage West Berlin girl on the border Friday night, West Berlin police reported.

Another girl with her was dragged through the barbed-wire barricade into East Germany, police added.

Both girls approached the wire believing an East German friend was trying to escape, the wounded girl told police.

The girls, both 17, were identified only as Ursula and Karen.

Concessions After Vote?

SASKATOON (UPI)—Welfare Minister A. M. Nicholson said Friday he had some reason to believe concessions would be granted to the province's doctors in the medicare dispute after the June 18 federal election.

Church Rejects Censure

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada refused to censure Saskatchewan doctors for their opposition to the province's medical care plan.

A resolution to the final day of the 38th annual meeting of the conference, calling on the doctors to co-operate with the government, was thrown out Friday after heated exchanges.

Rev. Helmut Wipprecht of Cobalt, Ont., said the conference last year had "the cheek" to censure Premier Antoine Saurin of Portugal. It should now have "the courage to tell the doctors a few things."

Rev. Harry Martin of Thistleton, Ont., who introduced the resolution on behalf of the evangelism and social services committee of the conference, said it was not intended as a "gratuitous insult" to Saskatchewan.

"We simply feel it is our duty to make our attitude known," Rev. Fred J. Jackson of Stroud, Ont., said the conference had no right to discuss the affairs of another province.

The conference eventually decided to appeal to both the government and doctors "to show a spirit of conciliation."

NANAIMO — Elmer Ernest Laskowski was sentenced in police court yesterday to 16 months definite and 18 months indefinite in the young offenders' unit at Oskalla prison.

He had previously admitted issuing worthless cheques to various Nanaimo business concerns including one to Myers-Holland Motors for $900 as part payment for a car.

Police said Laskowski gave himself up and had been cooperating in their investigation. Laskowski stated all offences on his lengthy record had been committed when he was under the influence of liquor.

Duncan Zoo

Flying Fox Survives

DUNCAN — The flying fox born here Jan. 18, the first ever born in Canada, is well on its way to maturity.

Shortly after its birth Vancouver zoo curator Alan Best said: "It is one thing to have one born and another to have it survive."

No, Duncan zooman Jim Oyen says: "I think we proved our point—it's no longer a baby but feeds itself."

And another flying fox born some weeks later here is also thriving.

Mr. Best told the Colonist in January there was a similar experience in Dun- can but he attributed it to the fact the flying foxes had not yet acclimatized themselves to their new environment.

Salvation Army Commissioner Wycliffe Booth and his $1,000,000 dream. Picture shows imaginative facade of new Matson Lodge for senior citizens officially opened yesterday in Esquimalt. Home will house 143 men and women. — (Colonist photo.)

Dedicated Man Fulfills Dream

Behind the ultra-modern facade of the Salvation Army's Matson Lodge, which looks out over West Bay in Esquimalt, is the dream of an iron-willed man who has dedicated his life to the homeless, the aged and the destitute.

Salvation Army Commissioner Wycliffe Booth, whose vision was primarily responsible for turning the $1,000,000 dream into reality, couldn't restrain the ring of pride which crept into his voice as he spoke at the lodge opening yesterday.

"A great thing has been done," he said. "If the sunset of life can be made beautiful, it will be so here. This is a moment that I will remember for the rest of my life."

Some 400 Victorians turned out to tour the giant home and hear Commissioner Booth dedicate it to the service of the community.

"I hope it will be a house of peace—a house of joy for the last full years of life."

As he spoke, the commissioner reiterated the theme upon which his organization's philosophy is based.

Matson Lodge Opens

"I dedicate this house to those who are lonely, to those who have had to abandon the circle of loved ones, to those who are friendless and devoid of hope."

Though he has championed the cause of Matson Lodge—$22,000,000 worth of similar projects throughout the nation—without respite since he took office seven years ago, Commissioner Booth still believes them to be little more than "second best."

The soft-spoken leader of the Salvation Army in Canada was enthusiastic about the good work a home such as the lodge can do in a community, but frankly admitted he wouldn't want his own mother looked after in such an institution.

"Our generation is rapidly losing respect for its senior citizens and responsibility for their care at home is declining every year."

He agreed there is a much stronger desire for independence among older people now than ever before, but felt the steady decline of interest in the elderly on the part of younger people is approaching serious proportions.

Welfare Minister Wesley Black officially turned the key which opened Matson Lodge to a deluge of visitors.

Applications for residence are coming in so quickly the Salvation Army expects the lodge to be full by September of this year.

The 143-bed institution will remain open for public inspection through today.

The lodge stands on part of the estate of J. S. H. Matson, former owner of The Daily Colonist. The property and a mansion which formerly stood on it were deeded to the Salvation Army in the will of his widow, Mrs. Ada T. Matson.

Earlier plans for turning the house into an institution were scrapped when Salvation Army officials decided a bigger building was needed.

'Drop Legal Charges'

IWA Members Reject Hillcrest Peace Plan

One Bus Not Enough

By KLAUS MUENTER

Duncan-area members of the IWA's big Nanaimo-Duncan local last night rejected a provincial government mediator's proposal for settlement of the long, bitter Hillcrest free bus dispute.

Deputy labor minister William Sands, named recently as a mediator by Labor Minister Peterson, recommended Thursday that Hillcrest Lumber Co. restore one of the two free buses it withdrew Jan. 2, touching off the dispute.

NO MENTION

He suggested the company put back the bus which took 45 Duncan loggers daily to the firm's operations at Mesachie Lake. But there was no mention of the bus which took 20 other employees from Lake Cowichan to work.

A meeting of 150 local members here last night turned this down because only one bus was mentioned.

LEGAL CHARGES

And it instructed IWA official Jack Moore to go back to the company, seeking an agreement that the company provide sufficient transportation for all loggers and drop all legal charges against the local and its officers.

Local president Weldon Juvenville said he would recommend acceptance of such an agreement.

ACTION LACKING

The provincial Labor Relations Board some time ago gave Hillcrest permission to prosecute the local and Mr. Juvenville. No action of this kind has ever been taken.

This permission was granted at the same time as the board issued a "cease and desist" order against the local and its president.

MILL WILL CLOSE

If the issue isn't settled by June 15, the company's main mill will be closed, putting 240 men out of work.

Before the IWA decision, Hillcrest said yesterday it is prepared to have the Duncan bus on the job Monday morning. No free transportation for the Lake Cowichan workers was included.

FOUR MONTHS

Mr. Sands' proposal was to keep the one bus going for four months while company and union representatives tried to find a permanent solution.

Plants Get Smoke 'Breather'

Promised prosecutions against Victoria industries breaking the city's anti-smoke bylaw were further delayed at a meeting of the smoke advisory committee yesterday.

Earlier, committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood had promised prosecutions would be ordered during the meeting but the meeting ended with no such order.

FULL EVALUATION

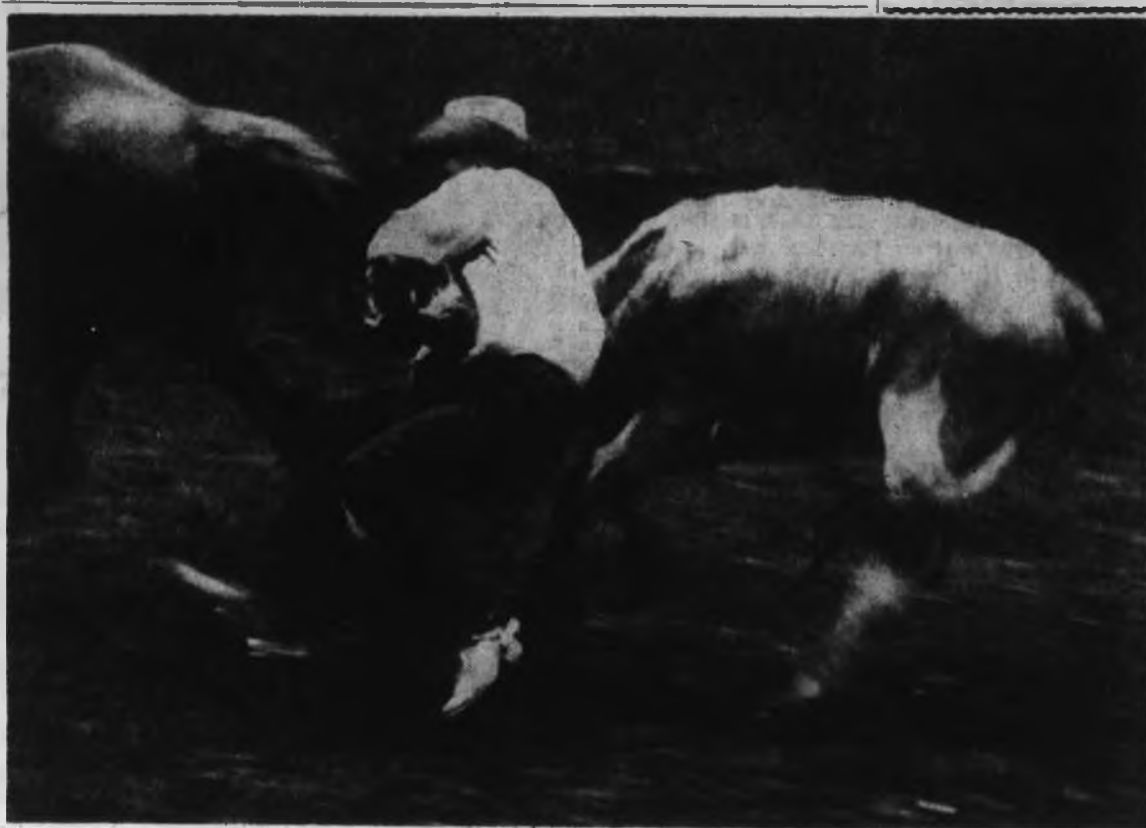

Instead, the committee was assured a full evaluation of the smoke problem was about to be undertaken by a staff of technicians.

The assurance came in a comprehensive report from William Jorgenson, head of the city's planning and inspection division.

PLANT LOCATIONS

Mr. Jorgenson told the committee he felt part of the problem is caused by location of smoke-producing plants and Victoria's prevailing southwest winds, blowing smoke into overlapping patterns.

City engineer James Garnett supported Mr. Jorgenson's plan to investigate the smoke problem fully.

Cent More July 1 For Bread

Price of bread in Victoria is expected to increase by one cent a loaf July 1.

The price hike will be the result of an increase in the price of flour, which was brought about by recent devaluation of the Canadian dollar, said a local baker.

One baker reports salesmen of several milling firms have refused to accept any orders at the current price after July 1.

Shortage In Skilled Expected

A labor shortage in skilled shipyard trades is anticipated within the next few weeks by the Victoria office of the National Employment Service.

The employment picture here is brighter than at any time in 1961, with the total number of job seekers about 3,000 below the lowest figure recorded last year.

"The number of men seeking work is perhaps the most notable figure," said a spokesman for the NES. He said the total of 1,946 is the lowest recorded at any time since October, 1957, when the count was 1,929.

The early start of the tourist season has also increased the number of jobs for women.

Riders Sent Flying

'I've Seen Stock Treated Worse'

Horses bucked, cowboys flew in every direction—and officials from the SPCA looked on with pained expressions—as the Vic-Van Lake Kinsmen rodeo opened last night.

No more than 1,000 spectators—most of them enthusiastic—turned out for the first performance in Memorial Arena, but Kinsmen Club officials said they expected a better crowd at today's performances.

SPCA secretary-manager David Beeching, who spent most of the evening behind the bucking-horse corral, seemed content that rodeo personnel weren't subjecting the animals to any more than "the usual abuse associated with rodeos."

Mr. Beeching and two SPCA inspectors were given the run of the arena for the duration of the show by the Kinsmen Club after complaints against the rodeo began pouring in from irate citizens days before the event opened.

"The rodeo and the men riding in it subscribe to the rules laid down by the Cow-boys' Protective Association," Mr. Beeching said, "and these rules are designed to restrain cruel or unusual treatment of the animals."

"I will say that I have seen horses and cattle treated worse than these are," he concluded.

He declined to comment further, merely pointing out that the rodeo still had two more performances to run.

Few of the bucking horse rides were impressive, but Washington cowboy Buzz Peit tied his calf in 16.2 seconds to win the first go-round in the calf-roping event.

A young Kamloops cowboy, Bob Goffredson, ran up a score of 167 in the second section of the saddle-horse competition.

The riders, including half a dozen of the country's top rodeo money-winners, are competing for points, and prizes will not be awarded before tonight.

Police Put No Premium On Ticket for Tourist

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

DOUBLE MTE: A friend of ours was in the Victoria city police traffic office the other day when an irate American tourist walked in.

He'd been given a traffic ticket.

The tourist paid up with an American dollar.

If he was mad for getting the ticket he was positively beside himself when the traffic people refused to pay him the premium on his currency.

There was, they said, no provision to pay the eight cents owing him.

Our friend did his part to make the tourist feel he was indeed welcome in our fair city—ticket or no ticket.

He dug into his own pocket and gave the tourist a dime.

GARIBOLDI GEOGRAPHY: The latest copy of TCA's In Flight magazine contains a picture of "Shuswap Lake near Skamoose, Vancouver Island, B.C."

THE THINGS THEY SAY: On CHEK's noon show the other day the announcer was reading the news.

He began reading: "Some $100,000 worth of prize livestock arrived in Victoria yesterday ..."

He looked up to check that the accompanying film was of the rodeo beasts. It wasn't. There, for all to see, was

Investors Quit Canada Take $1,800,000 Loss

LONDON (Reuters)—One of Britain's biggest investment companies is to withdraw its investment in Canada with an estimated loss of about $1,800,000, it was announced yesterday.

Harold Samuel, head of the Land Securities Investment Trust, told his shareholders in a statement the company's affairs in Canada "had not prospered as we would have wished."

He added that "as there seemed to be no prospect of real improvement, the board decided to cease activities in Canada and repatriate the resulting funds which it is considered can be put to better use at home."

The company's total investment in Canada is $2,253,000 and it is estimated the assets, mainly properties, will produce $1,644,000.

City Surrenders To Worm Army Until Green Gone

MENOMONIE, Wis. (UPI)—Some Menomonie residents swatted Friday. Others sprayed.

But most just sat back and waited for an army of canker or "measuring" worms to finish dining on everything green in sight and crawl back in the ground.

The worms invaded the city two weeks ago. They defoliated many trees to winter-like bareness and apparently chased off squirrels and rabbits.

Dr. John Lilly, a University of Wisconsin entomologist, told an emergency meeting of city council nothing could be done.

"You'll just have to wait until they crawl back into the ground," he said, "and that will be about a week." Next time around, he advised, "spray early."

The invasion of canker worms upset the even tenor of life in the community.

One housewife slipped on a worm-covered sidewalk and broke her wrist.

Ruben Paulus built a fire in his fireplace on a warm spring day because the worms were coming down the chimney.

Ed Brown said he ran into such a swarm of the insects dropping off trees he ate some by mistake.

"They have a funny stink, but they don't taste too bad," he said.

The worms, which normally restrict their diet to trees, expanded their appetites to include flower and vegetable gardens.

County agent Howard Kuhn said the heavy infestation was due to ideal weather conditions that permitted hatching of most of the moth larvae.

Piper Piker

Slicker Snared Pickles

THREE OAKS, Mich. (AP)—The piper fellow who picked a peck of pickled peppers was a piker compared to the slicker who snared 2,400 pecks of pickles from a Three Oaks firm.

State police had the job Friday of trying to catch the culprit on complaint of Jack Weinberg, owner of the Manhattan Pickle company at Three Oaks.

Weinberg discovered yesterday that his firm had lost 600 bushels of pickles.

Investigators say the thief apparently used dip nets to snare pickles from the vats, leaving some to float on the surface of the vats to give an illusion of full measure.

The thefts were discovered by employees emptying vats for processing.

Whirlwind Tour

Go See Fair Philip Smiles

SEATTLE (CP)—Prince Philip, departing from his prepared schedule at will to glimpse whatever caught his eye, made a whirlwind tour of the world's fair here Friday, setting vast crowds cheering and security officers to scratching their heads.

The crowd—several thousand gathered around each pavilion he was to visit—pressed within a few feet of the royal visitor everywhere he went.

There were no major incidents although shortly after his arrival at noon one woman about 40 pushed her way through the official party almost to the duke's elbow, shouting "I have a letter from the Queen." The duke smiled at her, then continued on his way as police moved her aside.

BY SURPRISE

When he had concluded his tour he made a brief public address which seemed to take him by surprise.

"I have been told for some extraordinary reason," he said, "to say something to you."

"I can't think why. You are

SEATTLE (CP) —

Worship at the altar of progress should not blind people to the need to keep progress in all its forms firmly under control, Prince Philip said Friday night.

The Duke of Edinburgh was addressing 600 persons attending a formal black-tie dinner given in his honor by the English-Speaking Union of the United States during his two-day visit to Seattle and the world's fair.

STRESS ON FUTURE

He congratulated the state of Washington and Seattle for an enterprising and fascinating fair in which he said he found the most significant thing is the emphasis on the future.

"It is very easy to look back with pride on past achievements or even with remorse on past failures," he said. "But it is far more difficult to look forward with plans for a better world."

FROM OUR GRASP

"It is particularly difficult at this moment of explosive scientific and technological development, when the control of our destiny seems to be slipping from our grasp."

"Worship at the altar of progress is an increasingly popular manifestation but it should not blind people to the need to keep progress in all its forms firmly under control."

INDISCRIMINATELY

"In particular," the duke said, "I believe that we should concern ourselves that progress does not displace nature indiscriminately."

"Man's intellect may be self-sufficient, but man's spirit needs the refreshing and inspiring influence of the living natural world."

With Cpl. Raymond Bate of Queen's Household Cavalry at attention—left, Prince Philip arrived in British exhibit at Seattle fair yesterday.

Royal Honors Range From Law to Low For Birthday List

LONDON (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth marked her official birthday by bestowing honors on several hundred of her subjects Friday, ranging from constitutional law expert Lord Radcliffe to internationally-known cartoonist David Low.

The 63-year-old Radcliffe, now a baron, is the only new Viscount. He headed a five-man committee appointed to study British civil service security following the 42-year prison sentence passed on foreign service employee George Blake for spying.

COLONEL BLIMP

A knighthood was given to David A. C. Low, 71, whose cartoons appear in the influential Liberal Guardian. Low created the betwelled Colonel Blimp—perpetually in a Turkish bath—to satirize the Conservatives.

Friday's birthday honors list appeared almost six weeks after the Queen's 36th birthday on April 21.

Peter Snell, the New Zealand runner who holds three world records, was made a member of the Order of the British Empire.

Commander Walter E. Whitehead, the bearded president of Schweppes (U.S.A.) and its well-known ambassador in television advertisements, was made an officer of the Order of the British Empire.

Red Guards Wound Girl

BERLIN (AP)—East German border guards shot and wounded a teen-age West Berlin girl on the border Friday night, West Berlin police reported.

Another girl with her was dragged through the barbed-wire barricade into East Germany, police added.

Both girls approached the wire believing an East German friend was trying to escape.

Four Injured

LADYSMITH—Four persons were believed to have been seriously injured in a two-car crash here last midnight. Two were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Thomas of Westholme.

Concessions After Vote?

SASKATOON (UPI)—Welfare Minister A. M. Nicholson said Friday he had some reason to believe concessions would be granted to the province's doctors in the medicare dispute after the June 18 federal election.

Church Rejects Censure

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Conference of the United Church of Canada refused to censure Premier Antoine Salazar of Portugal. It should have "the courage to tell the doctors a few things."

Rev. Harry Martin of Thistleton, Ont., who introduced the resolution on behalf of the evangelism and social services committee of the conference, said it was not intended as a "gratuitous insult" to Saskatchewan.

The resolution also called on the Ontario government to co-operate with the federal government "in any steps to inaugurate a health plan for Ontario."

The conference Friday decided to press for the admission of a "substantial number" of Hong Kong refugees.

Another resolution attacked Premier Roberts for his recent decision to relax Ontario's liquor laws.
